EMPLOYEE HANDBOOK

Introduction

The employees of Levo Credit Union are one of its most valuable resources. This handbook was written to guide the employer/employee relationship, provide clarity and excitement for the workplace culture and express the value we provide to our employees. Levo's vision, purpose, mission, and core values represent the character of championing our membership that we wish to be known by in our community and desire each employee to exemplify.

PURPOSE Why we do what we do To vitalize connections that empower prosperity VISION What drives us as an organization Helping People Live Better MISSION The work we do every day We will better people's lives by providing relevant financial service, building trusted relationships, serving our community and providing a rewarding atmosphere for our employees.	INTERNAL VALUES What we hold dear Integrity Respect Accountability Service EXTERNAL VALUES How we show up Inclusivity Positivity Empowerment	CHARACTER How we're perceived by others Champion of the everyday guy and gal POSITIVE TRAINER SAVVY CONNECTOR COMMUNITY BEACON We're the friendly, positive, down to earth neighbor. Passionate and savvy about our interests, we're experts who keep it real. We listen, connect, and ask the right focused questions to find the best path for each member. We have a strong moral compass and will stand up for what is right, while also embracing change and thinking out of the box when finding better solutions.

Handbook Disclosure

There are several things that are important to keep in mind about this handbook/policy manual. First, it contains only general information and guidelines. It is not intended to be comprehensive or to address all the possible applications of, or exceptions to, the general policies and procedures described. For that reason, if you have any questions concerning eligibility for a particular benefit, or the applicability of a policy or practice to you, you should address your specific questions to the Human Resources Department. Neither this handbook or included policy nor any other credit union document confers any contractual right, either express or implied, to remain in the credit union's employment. Nor does it guarantee any fixed terms and conditions of your employment. Your employment is not for any specific time and may be terminated at will, with or without cause and without prior notice for any lawful reason, by the credit union or you may resign for any reason at any time. No supervisor or other representative of the credit union (except the President/CEO) has the authority to enter into any agreement for employment for any specified period, or to make any agreement contrary to the above. Further, for such agreement to be enforceable the agreement must be in writing and signed by the President/CEO.

Second, the procedures, practices, policies, and benefits described here may be modified or discontinued without notice. We will try to inform you of any changes as they occur.

Also, some of the subjects described here are covered in detail in official policy documents. You should refer to these documents for specific information since this handbook/policy manual only briefly summarizes those benefits. Please note that the terms of the written insurance policies and benefit programs are controlling.

Employment

Levo Credit Union will comply with the requirements of Federal, State and Local law with respect to discrimination and to employ properly qualified persons regardless of their race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy, sexual orientation, or gender identity), national origin, age (40 or older), disability, genetic information (including family medical history) and protected veteran status or any other protected characteristic as established by law.

The President/CEO is subject to hire and release by the Board of Directors. The President/CEO, in turn, is responsible for the direction, including the right to hire, suspend, demote, or discharge for cause -- all other employees.

1. Employment Screenings

To ensure that individuals who join the organization are well qualified and have a strong potential to be productive and successful, the credit union will screen all applicants for employment. A complete background check will be completed for all applicants for criminal history, credit checks and bondability.

Employees who are not bondable, or for any reason their bond is terminated or revoked by the bonding company, will not be offered employment; and will be terminated from employment. Bondability is at the sole discretion of the bonding company.

2. Initial Employment Period

Every new employee goes through an initial period of adjustment to learn about the credit union and his/her job. During this time the employee will have an opportunity to find out if they are suited to, and like, their new position. Also, the initial employment period gives the employee's supervisor a reasonable time to evaluate his/her performance. The initial employment period is six months and may be extended under certain circumstances.

During the initial employment period, the new employee will be given training and guidance from his/her supervisor. He/she may be discharged at any time during this period if his/her supervisor concludes that he/she is not progressing or performing satisfactorily. As is true during an employee's employment with the credit union, employment is not for any specific time and may be terminated at will, with or without cause for any lawful reason and without prior notice. Completion of the initial employment period does not guarantee continued employment for any duration.

Following the initial employment period, the employee may receive a performance review.

3. Attendance, Punctuality, Absence

To maintain a productive work environment, the credit union expects employees to be both reliable and punctual in reporting for scheduled work. Absenteeism and tardiness place a burden on other employees and on the credit union. In each instance where an employee will be late to work or unable to work, they must contact their immediate supervisor or the next level supervisor a minimum of 1 hour prior to the beginning of their work shift.

An absence of three days, without proper employee notification to the appropriate supervisor, will be considered a voluntary resignation.

If you are absent three (3) consecutive days, with proper notification, an employee may be required to provide a doctor's note indicating they are fit for duty and are allowed to return to work if the absence was caused due to illness or injury. Absences lasting more than 5 days should be reported to Human Resources.

Excessive lateness and absence may lead to disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment. Punctuality and attendance records are indicators of dependability and are given consideration with respect to performance reviews, pay increases and promotions/transfers.

4. Performance Reviews

Performance reviews are a communication tool used between you and your supervisor to discuss job requirements and standards, working relationships, future expectations, and work-related problems or concerns. Performance reviews are considered in determining salary.

All regular employees will participate in ongoing reviews of their performance with their immediate supervisor.

5. Job Description Requirements

The President/CEO will ensure that there are adequate job descriptions for each position in the credit union. Job descriptions will be developed for new positions, and current positions will be evaluated periodically for updates and changes. The VP of HR (Human Resources) will be responsible for updates and changes.

6. Transfers and Promotions

Levo Credit Union encourages employees to assume higher-level positions or lateral transfers for which they qualify. In return the credit union provides a job posting process designed to give qualified employees the opportunity to apply for most open positions.

Selection for the open positions will be based on several factors including but not limited to prior performance, teamwork, training, work experience, qualifications, skills, and the needs of the credit union. Seniority may be considered in the final selection process if the qualifications of applicants are equal.

Job openings will be posted for five (5) working days, whenever possible. External applicants may be interviewed during the posting period; however, employees will be considered in all selection decisions, assuming equal qualifications. Current employees must be in good standing (no current warnings, etc.) and are not necessarily given preference over outside applicants in the final determination.

All final selection decisions are made by the supervisor.

To apply for an open position, that is posted, the employee must complete the online application available from Human Resources. For full consideration, a resume must be submitted along with the Supervisor Authorization form.

7. Corrective Action

Levo Credit Union has always maintained the highest standards of service. Therefore, in all dealings with members and each other, all credit union employees are expected to respect the dignity of everyone. With this in mind, there have been policies established to benefit us all.

Some of the policies are outlined in this handbook. Others are contained in the following list. You are encouraged to read this list of actions and to understand them fully. The following list is for illustrative purposes only and is not all-inclusive. There are several rule infractions, which may be grounds for disciplinary action up to and including immediate termination. They include, but are not limited to:

- Falsification of employment applications, timecards, time sheets, and other work records for yourself or anyone else;
- Treating a fellow employee, member, or any other non-employee in a manner that is in violation of Credit Union policies or practices;
- Failing to follow instructions or perform work as requested by a supervisor;
- Unauthorized or excessive absences, including late arrival and early departure from work;
- Tampering with the credit union database or breaching security systems or policies;
- Breaches of confidential information;
- Being convicted of any felony, which relates to the safety of the employees or their possessions during normal working hours or any conviction which results in the employee's ability to be insured or bonded as required by the employee's position;
- Arrest or conviction for violation of the law on company premises or on company business;
- The use, possession, sale, or transportation of non-prescription or illegal drugs;
- Reporting to work in a condition unfit to perform your duties, including reporting to work under the influence of alcohol or drugs, both prescription and non-prescription;
- Possession of firearms, weapons or dangerous substances while performing job duties or on company premises;
- Fighting or starting a disturbance on company premises or while performing job duties including but not limited to assaulting or intimidating an employee or non-employee;
- Violations of Levo Credit Union Policies.
- Violations which result in the filing of a discovery of a potential bond claim.

No matter how detailed the rules, situations will occur that cannot be anticipated. Please remember that proper conduct is expected of all employees and unsatisfactory conduct will be subject to discipline up to and including termination.

8. Employee Privacy

Levo Credit Union believes in respecting the dignity of its employees. The credit union will strive to conduct its business in such a way as to ensure the rights and privacy of all employees are fully preserved as possible and as required by law.

9. Confidentiality

Financial, proprietary, and trade secret information about the business activities of the credit union, personal and financial information regarding its members and their accounts, and personal information regarding its employees (such as medical information and disciplinary actions) is considered credit union property and is strictly confidential. There should be no communication of a confidential nature outside the credit union.

To protect confidentiality, employees are reminded to:

- Store confidential information in appropriate locked files when not in use.
- Avoid displaying confidential data where it can be easily observed.
- Avoid discussing confidential information regarding the credit union, its members, or employees, except when required to perform the job.
- Dispose of confidential information that is no longer needed through the shredding process.
- Forward any external inquiries regarding employment references or verifications of employment to Human Resources.
- Refrain from discussing credit union business, such as member transactions, financials, or other confidential information with ex-employees.

Also, conversations involving confidential information must remain business and not become gossip. Reasonable care should be taken not to discuss any matter of a confidential nature in public places where the conversation may be overheard.

Employees who misuse or release confidential information may be subject to disciplinary action up to and including immediate dismissal.

10. Employee Categories

Based on the conditions of employment, employees of Levo Credit Union fall into the following categories:

- Full-Time
- Part-Time

- Temporary Employees

Full-Time

An employee who regularly works 30 hours a week or more is considered full-time.

Exempt employees are classified as such if their job duties are exempt from the overtime provisions of the Federal and State Wage and Hour Laws. Exempt employees are expected to work an average of 40 hours per week.

Non-exempt employees receive overtime pay in accordance with the overtime policy and state and federal law.

Part-Time

Part-time employees can be classified as exempt or non-exempt and work less than 30 hours a week. Unpaid time off may be limited for part time employees who work less than 20 hours per week.

Temporary Employees

A temporary employee is hired for a specific project or period and works an irregular schedule. A temporary employee is paid by the hour. Due to specific needs that a seasonal employee is hired to satisfy, time off will be limited to that which was pre-approved by their supervisor upon hire/rehire.

11. Pay Periods

Paydays occur bi-weekly for exempt and non-exempt employees. Payroll checks for employees reflect compensation for the prior two weeks. The workweek is considered Sunday at 12:00 a.m. through Saturday at 11:59 p.m. All payroll checks must be direct deposited. It is preferred that all payroll checks be directly deposited into the employee's account at Levo Credit Union. However, direct deposits to other financial institutions will be accepted. Employees have access to the details of their pay amount and deductions via an online system. Employees must review their paycheck information each pay period. If the employee believes that the check is incorrect, such as improper deductions or the failure to make a deduction for a contribution to a benefit plan, the employee should notify Human Resources immediately. There will be no adverse action taken against an employee who raises questions about deductions or the accuracy of their paycheck.

12. Payroll Deductions

Deductions will be made from your paycheck as required by law, including your federal and state withholding tax (if applicable), and your portion of social security contributions. Other deductions may include deductions required by law, such as garnishments. Contributions to company programs, such as employee-elected health insurance and other requested benefit plans, will be deducted each pay period, as necessary. Contributions to the 401K Plan will be automatically deducted upon becoming eligible unless the employee waives their automatic election.

13. Hours and Overtime

The normal workday varies depending upon your position. Your supervisor assigns lunch breaks and rest periods. On a few occasions it may be necessary that you work more than 40 hours in a workweek. If this situation occurs, approval must first be obtained from your supervisor. Overtime will be paid in accordance with the Fair Labor Standards Act. Overtime must be paid after forty (40) hours of straight time worked during any work week for all non-exempt employees. More than eight (8) hours of work in any one day at straight time is permitted. However, once forty (40) hours of regular time is reached during a payroll week, overtime is paid at a rate of time and one-half, pursuant to applicable law.

Authorization for overtime work is at the discretion and good judgment of the Department Supervisor and must be approved in advance. All unscheduled overtime must have your supervisor's authorization BEFORE or WITHIN 24 HOURS of occurrence. Your immediate supervisor must sign off on the overtime prior to submitting it to payroll. Scheduled overtime, written in the schedule or for scheduled meetings, does not need supervisor approval as it is accounted for in regular scheduling. Employees will be expected to work overtime scheduled in advance.

Every attempt is made to accomplish all necessary work without requiring overtime and in situations where overtime is incurred, or likely (Saturdays) employees may be asked to reduce their hours earlier in the week to eliminate the overtime. However, if you are asked to work overtime your cooperation will be appreciated.

14. Time Clock (non-exempt employees)

Every time you start work, start, and stop lunch hours, or end work, please use the online timekeeping system. It is your responsibility to punch according to your schedule unless otherwise requested by your supervisor. Working while not punched in is strictly prohibited. Employees are required to clock out for unpaid lunch breaks of at least 30 minutes. You must notify your supervisor of any missed punches or overtime so that your supervisor can make the proper adjustments, notations, or approvals to the time clock. The timekeeping system reflects any PTO hours requested and approved by supervisors.

15. Lunch/Break Periods

a. Breaks: The Credit Union will provide regular full-time employees, whenever possible, two (2) fifteen-minute breaks, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. Part-time and temporary employees will be provided with one (1) fifteen-minute break for every four hours worked in an 8-hour shift. Since break times are paid for by the credit union, we request employees take their break periods within the building rather than leaving the premises. Please refrain from extended breaks or tardiness on return from breaks.

b. Lunch: All employees are required to take a minimum 30-minute uninterrupted meal period when working a shift of more than five hours. Employees must clock out and not perform any work during the unpaid lunch break. The break room facilities are provided, and each employee is responsible to maintain it in a neat and orderly manner.

16. Compensation for use of Personal Devices

For "Off the Clock Work" for Non-Exempt (Classified) Employees

Select non-exempt employees of Levo Credit Union may use their personal electronic devices for legitimate business purposes determined by their supervisor and authorized by management. Personal electronic devices include personally owned cell phones, smart phones, tablets, laptops, and computers. Use of personal devices for work purposes includes reviewing, sending, and responding to e-mails or text messages, responding to phone calls, or making phone calls.

Non-exempt employees should not use their personal devices for work purposes outside of their normal work schedule without authorization in advance from management. No one has the authority to allow or ask directly or indirectly any non-exempt employee to perform work for the credit union "off the clock" without compensation. In all cases, all time worked by non-exempt employees must be recorded and compensated for. Non-exempt employees must report all hours worked to their time clock supervisor to include work that may take place away from their assigned workstation or outside their normal work schedule.

Non-exempt employees may not use their personal devices for work purposes during periods of unpaid leave without authorization from management. Levo Credit Union reserves the right to deactivate the company's application and access the employee's personal device during periods of unpaid leave.

There will be no retaliation against any employee for accurately reporting any unauthorized "off the clock" work. An employee's failure to report time worked and resulting overtime work outside the workplace may face disciplinary action.

Supervisors must be accountable for enforcing this policy and keeping work completed outside the workplace to a minimum.

Employees who are allowed to use their personal electronic devices for business purposes and do so are agreeing to allow the Credit Union to access the employee's phone in the event it is lost or stolen and upon separation from employment to block or erase access to the Credit Union's information.

17. Phones and Cellular Phones

A substantial portion of our business is conducted or transacted over the telephone. Many items that apply to direct member contact and member service also apply to the use of the telephone. A smile in your voice is important. A courteous attitude and a desire to assist the members are other important points whether over the telephone or in direct personal contact. You are a part of Levo, and the way you work with and assist the members reflects this organization. To ensure good telephone member relations, be sure to follow the Credit Union's Phone Greeting Standards. To eliminate unnecessary confusion and disturbances, answer your phone on the first ring whenever possible. If you are unable to answer your phone, you are expected to return phone messages within a timely manner.

18. Phone Greeting Standards

The following standards are to be utilized when answering incoming calls to our general office numbers (334-2471 and the 800 number). What members hear on the phone when they call is part of their total experience and helps reinforce our brand with the public. Therefore, it is important that we have a consistent greeting used by all operators.

Our greeting to callers has four elements:

1. Greet the caller – We are known as a friendly place, and friends offer a greeting like "good morning" or "good afternoon."
2. Who we are – Clearly identify the name of our business by using our full name: Levo Credit Union. Your Branch name is not an appropriate alternative to our full name.
3. Who you are – Identify yourself by your first name. This personalizes the greeting and tells the caller you are accountable.
4. How can I help you? – This phrase is important. Do not ask "Can I help you?" That presumes we may not be able to help the caller, and we should always assume that we can. Therefore, ask how you can help.

You can easily greet a caller using all four elements in about 3 seconds:

Good morning, Levo Credit Union. This is John; how can I help you?

The following standards are to be used when answering your own seven-digit direct line number. Here again, we need to reinforce our brand and provide a consistent way to greet our callers. When answering your own direct line number, use the following three elements:

1. Greet the caller – Offer a greeting like “good morning” or “good afternoon.”
2. Who you are – Identify yourself by your first name.
3. How can I help you? – Ask how you can help the caller.

Good afternoon; this is John. How can I help you?

Finally, there are instances where our employees transfer a caller to a number that does not belong to a specific employee or is sent to a group of employees. For example; the drive up, the front line, the member services ACD group, etc. In these cases, your greeting should contain the following elements:

1. Greet the caller – Offer a greeting like “good morning” or “good afternoon.”
2. Who you are – Identify yourself by your first name and your department.
3. How can I help you? – Ask how you can help the caller.

Good afternoon; this is John in Member Services. How can I help you?

Our members are entitled to the best telephone service. To keep our lines open, you are asked to limit your personal calls to those necessary and to keep them as brief as possible. Personal cell phone use, including texting or using other applications on your phone, should be avoided. Extended personal calls are not to be made from the office during work time. Personal long-distance calls on our long-distance system are prohibited.

While at work, employees are expected to exercise the same discretion in using personal cellular phones as is expected for the use of company phones. Excessive personal calls, texting, or usage during the workday, regardless of the phone used, can interfere with employee productivity and be distracting to others. Employees are encouraged to make any other personal calls and/or texting on non-work time where possible and to ensure that friends and family members are aware of Levo Credit Union’s policy. Personal cell phone use should be avoided while in training sessions or other meetings.

Use of camera phones or other video/audio recording devices is prohibited on company premises in work areas without senior management's consent due to the member's confidential information. Use of camera or video functions recording devices are also prohibited in restrooms and changing rooms.

19. Office Celebrations

Levo Credit Union recognizes that employees may wish to arrange social functions on company premises during regular business hours to celebrate special events, such as baby showers, retirements, and other special occasions.

Social events held on company premises during regular business hours are to be limited to special occasions only.

If possible, such organized events should be limited to the normal time allowed for lunches and breaks or after business hours and should not result in a reduction or disruption in member service in any department or function.

Although the credit union will permit such celebrations, the credit union will not require employees to participate in such events.

Company funds will not be available for use for such employee-sponsored functions. Participation in the collection of funds for such events is left solely to the discretion of each individual employee. No employee is required or pressured to donate towards the celebration. Collection for such events is to adhere to the following guidelines:

Requested via a single email at the time the event is announced.

All monies collected may be deposited into an account or given directly to the individual(s). This information should also be communicated via email.

There is to be no “one-on-one” requesting or soliciting for the collection of money.

All arrangements for permissible events other than company-sponsored functions will be made by employees on a voluntary basis and on break time or other nonworking time.

20. Outside Employment

Outside employment is permissible if it does not interfere or conflict with the Credit Union’s interests such as employment with a competitor and provided it does not hinder the employee's ability to meet the responsibilities and demands of their company-required work.

All employees must obtain approval from their immediate supervisor and Human Resources before accepting any outside employment. Activity related to outside employment may not take place during the employee's regular hours nor involve the use of the company's resources.

Competing or conflicting outside employment includes any position that:

A. Competes with a service or business provided by the Credit Union including, but not limited to, working for a:
   - credit union,
   - bank,
   - credit card company,
   - mortgage company,
   - savings and loan association,
   - trust company,
   - insurance agency,
   - broker/dealer, or
   - financial services company;

B. requires activities or services to be performed during regular Credit Union working hours (e.g., receiving phone calls, preparing reports) or uses Credit Union equipment or supplies;

C. involves information developed for or proprietary to the Credit Union, including member lists or confidential information;

D. includes transferring documents or lists of members and passing them on;

E. includes providing services to the public where the knowledge of the individual's employment with the Credit Union may influence customers;

F. involves preparation, audit, or certification of statements or documents the Credit Union may rely on to make lending or other decisions; or

G. is with a company which is a member of the Credit Union, if you have signed authority or some other level of control or authority over any of the deposit or credit accounts maintained at the Credit Union.

Any employee who wishes to serve in an advisory capacity for another organization or serve on the board during non-working hours may be deemed as conflicting or competing with the Credit Union and must first obtain approval from Human Resources. Any Vice President who wishes to serve in an advisory capacity for another organization or serve on the board of any organization must first obtain approval from the President/CEO. Approval will be granted based on the amount of time and type of activity involved, any interference with the employee's regular work schedule, and the benefit to the employee and the Credit Union.

If approval is granted, it will be contingent on the following factors:

A. It is at all times made clear that you are not serving at the direction or request of the Credit Union; and

B. You understand the challenges and risks of the outside position and are alert for actual or potential conflicts of interest.

Approval may later be withdrawn if it is believed to be in the best interests of the Credit Union. Refusal to comply with a request to discontinue outside employment or an advisory position may result in termination of employment at the Credit Union.

21. Community Involvement

Levo Credit Union is committed to supporting and encouraging its employees' contributions to charitable organizations. Employees are encouraged to support our community through company-sponsored volunteer events and to volunteer at schools or nonprofits in their own philanthropic interest areas.

When employees donate 20 or more volunteer hours with an eligible nonprofit in a calendar-year period (Jan-Dec), during their personal time, Levo Credit Union will grant that employee 4 additional hours of PTO. Human Resources will track quarterly submissions and add PTO.

Employees are asked to report and track volunteer time quarterly to Human Resources. A company-provided volunteer tracking sheet can be used to log the dates, times, and the organization you volunteered with. The volunteer tracking does not have to be approved by your manager.

22. Solicitation

Solicitation and/or the distribution of literature can interfere with the business environment, cause interruptions, and be an inconvenience to others. The Credit Union prohibits the solicitation, distribution and posting of materials on or at credit union property by any employee or non-employee, except as may be permitted by this policy. The sole exceptions to this policy are charitable and community activities and similar activities supported by or sponsored by the Credit Union.

Non-employees may not trespass, solicit employees or distribute literature of any kind on the Credit Union’s premises at any time. Employees may only admit non-employees to work areas with management approval or as part of a company-sponsored program.

Employees may not solicit or share literature with other employees directly during work times, except in connection with a company approved or sponsored event. Credit Union facilities may not be used as a meeting place that involves solicitation and/or distribution of literature.

Employees may be allowed to share their own charitable or community involvement activities with materials in break rooms or other designated locations. Employees may be permitted to share a one-time electronic announcement about their own charitable or community involvement activities with prior review and approval from Human Resources. This review is limited to verifying that the content of the announcement meets the Credit Union's policies with respect to anti-discrimination, anti-harassment, etc. This exception will allow individuals to share information about small fundraisers, cookie sales, walk-a-thons, etc.

To maintain good member relations and preserve the professional work environment, employees may not wear or display in their work area any insignia, badge, or button, excluding professional designation awards and credit union provided badges such as name tags or promotional badges, except as allowed by law.

Suspected violations of this policy should be reported to Human Resources.

23. Visitors

Visitors (including friends or relatives) are not allowed on company premises for extended amounts of time for purposes other than those related to credit union business. "Authorized Visitor" tags should be issued to any visiting vendors who have permission to be in our locations without direct supervision.

24. Robberies

Please refer to the Robbery Assignment Card designated for your work position and department. Further information is available during annual training or positions in which you may find yourself working. Employees should consult with their supervisor or the manager on duty if they are uncertain about their responsibilities.

25. Abusive Member Guidelines

Levo Credit Union is committed to treating members with courtesy and respect and in return requires that employees be treated in the same manner. The purpose of these guidelines is to protect the employees from abusive behavior by members, vendors, or visitors on premises or while conducting credit union business.

Responsibility

In the event of any member, vendor, or visitor that engages in any type of abusive conduct towards an employee or member, the employee should notify management immediately. Management will review the situation and adhere to the following steps.

Abusive Conduct Definition

Abusive conduct includes, but is not limited to:

- Engaging in verbal abuse; using profane, abusive degrading, intimidating, or threatening language towards employees, fellow members or affiliates including unwanted remarks regarding age, gender, sexual orientation, ethnic, religious, or racial harassment;
- Making sexual flirtations, advances, or propositions; engaging in sexual conduct or making sexual overtures; displaying sexually suggestive pictures or objects;
- Making false, vicious, or malicious statements about any employee or Levo Credit Union and its services, operations, policies, practices, management, or affiliates;
- Making or suggesting threats of bodily harm or property damage to an employee or their family members or engaging in offensive or abusive physical contact;
- Attempting to coerce or interfere with employees in the performance of their duties at any time;
- Conducting or attempting to conduct or engage in fraudulent, dishonest, or deceptive activity of any kind involving employees or the Credit Union services;
- Destruction, appropriation or misappropriation of Credit Union funds, property, or other material proprietary to the Credit Union;
- Deliberate or repeated violations of security procedures or safety rules;
- Possession, use or being under the influence of drugs, including both recreational and medical marijuana or alcoholic substances on the Credit Union's premises;
- Fighting or possession of weapons of any kind on credit union premises except for on-duty law enforcement officers or security officers.

Steps:

- If possible, inform another team member of a meeting with a member, especially if there is concern or uncertainty regarding member behavior and/or response.

- Try to remain calm, control verbal and body language and be aware of personal space as you work to resolve issues/concerns.
- Listen carefully to what the individual has to say, acknowledge the concern/issue, and empathize.
- Upon indication of abusive conduct, employees should excuse themselves and indicate that they are going to get someone to help them review the situation to come to the best outcome.
- Telephone conversations that turn abusive may be tactfully ended.
- Employee reports the incident to immediate supervisor.
- Immediate supervisor discusses and reviews the situation:
  - Was this a one- time occurrence?
  - Has this member repeatedly abused staff?
- After review, the immediate supervisor may
  - Notify/contact Authorities- Police Department
  - Note the account
  - Send a letter to member
- If abuse continues, Branch Manager, VP Branch Services, VP of HR, or EVP should be notified with complete documentation of events and how they were handled.
- Upper Management will review the situation/event and determine the next course of action which may include any of the following repercussions.

Repercussions

The following is an example of the actions Levo Credit Union may take against a member who has engaged in abusive conduct:

- Denial of all services other than the right to maintain a share account and the right to vote at the annual meeting and special meetings;
- Denial of services which involve personal contact with employees;
- Denial of access to credit union premises;
- Taking other actions as deemed necessary under circumstances that are not expressly precluded by the Federal Credit Union Act, the NCUA (National Credit Union Administration) Rules and Regulations, or the credit union's bylaws.

Services will not be denied based upon any factor prohibited by law which includes but is not limited to race, sex, age, national origin, religion, membership in the uniformed services or marital status.

A complete list of all members that have had these limitations imposed will be reported to the Board of Directors and if necessary, a special meeting of the members will be called to expel such members.

26. Mail

Employees are not allowed to use company postage or supplies for personal mail. You may include your stamped personal mail in the daily outgoing mail.

27. Space Heaters

Due to the dangerous nature of space heaters and the extreme fire danger they expose to our credit union, space heaters are not allowed. Exceptions may be made in specific circumstances under express written authorization from the President/CEO. We understand there are cold spots within the buildings, so please visit your supervisor or our facilities staff to see if any adjustments can be made to the thermostat in your area. If you are someone who gets cold easily, please dress warmly and/or dress in layers.

28. Workplace Safety

The Credit Union is committed to providing a safe and healthy working environment. In this connection, it makes every effort to comply with relevant federal and state occupational health and safety laws and to develop the best feasible operations, procedures, technologies, and programs conducive to such an environment. Further, all employees are expected to work diligently to maintain safe and healthy working conditions and to adhere to proper operating practices and procedures designed to prevent injuries and illnesses. Employees should refer to the OSHA (Occupational Safety and Health Administration) poster in the employee breakroom for more information.

The responsibilities of all employees include:

1. Always exercising maximum care and good judgment to prevent accidents and injuries;
2. Reporting to supervisors and seeking first aid for all injuries, regardless of how minor;

3. Reporting unsafe conditions, equipment, or practices to supervisory personnel;
4. Always observing conscientiously all safety rules and regulations; and
5. Notifying their supervisors, before the beginning of the workday, of any medication they are taking that may cause drowsiness or other side effects that could lead to injury to them and their coworkers.

29. Ergonomics

The Credit Union is committed to providing employees with workstations which are free from known or potential hazards, and which will allow employees to be both productive and comfortable. The Credit Union also recognizes and appreciates that to be effective; employees may at times need differently configured workstations due to an injury or Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) accommodation. For the Credit Union to best determine whether an employee's workstation is appropriate or if the workstation arrangement needs to be modified, employees should first discuss their situation with their supervisor. Employees must notify Human Resources to request a formal ergonomic evaluation of their workstation or determine a need for modifications to the employee's work habits or additional adjustments to their workspace. No outside equipment or devices should be brought into work without prior approval from Human Resources.

30. Use of Scented Products in the Workplace

Recognizing that employees and visitors to our offices may have sensitivity or allergic reactions to various fragrant products, the Credit Union requests that employees be cautious when using highly scented products in the workplace. In addition, the use of plug-in scented candle warmers can pose a risk if left plugged in as well as a mess on floors if bumped, so these devices are prohibited. Any employee with a concern about scents or odors should contact his or her supervisor.

31. Texting While Driving

All employees are expected to follow applicable local, state, and federal laws and regulations regarding the use of cellphones. Employees who drive on company business, including travel to/from training, are expected to refrain from using their phone while driving; use of a cellphone while driving is not required by the credit union. Reading or sending text messages while driving is strictly prohibited. Employees charged with traffic violations resulting from their phone's use while driving will be responsible for all liabilities resulting from such actions.

Compensation

1. Salary Structure

Levo's strives to provide a comprehensive and competitive compensation program supporting our mission. We strive to pay competitive base salaries commensurate with the role in the credit union; the market value of the position; performance in that position; plus provide a competitive benefits package and the opportunity for additional incentives beyond employees' base salary to reward them for outstanding service that benefits our member-owners.

Employees' base pay and increases are based on how well the employee meets or exceeds the service and performance standards of the Credit Union. Decisions regarding total compensation and individual performance expectations are to be measured by the core values of the credit union and the effect those decisions may have toward meeting our vision and mission.

2. Employee Salary

The salary to be paid by any employee is based on the position they hold within the credit union and on their experience, time in position, initiative, and performance. The Credit Union's President/CEO is responsible for the granting of salary adjustments for those under their supervision within budget allocations established for this purpose.

3. President/CEO Salary

The credit union President/CEO's salary is established by the credit union Board of Directors.

4. Salary Ranges and Brackets

The Credit Union strives to pay its employees a fair and equitable amount for their services without regard to race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy, sexual orientation or gender identity), national origin, age (40 or older), disability, genetic information (including family medical history) and protected veteran status or any other protected characteristic as established by law and to maintain fair and competitive salaries consistent with the economic requirements of the organization and commensurate with the company's competitive strategy in the labor market in order to attract, retain, and reward qualified employees who are supportive of our mission, vision, and core values.

All positions are assigned salary ranges reflecting industry and local/regional labor market pay practices and management's internal evaluation of our credit union's jobs. Salary ranges are composed of a minimum salary, a mid-point, and a maximum salary and are updated annually. Jobs are reviewed and salary grades are adjusted (if needed) by management. Internal salary decisions are based on appraisals of employee performance and internal equity. At the annual budget meeting, the President/CEO will recommend a total salary budget to the Board of Directors for approval. Annual merit increases will be given on the first full paycheck of January each year. Promotions and other pay adjustments may be given at any time during the year.

Supervisors are not allowed to hire nor are they authorized to set pay above or below the current salary range.

5. Bonus and Incentive Pay

Incentive pay plans are an important piece of our total compensation package. They encourage employees to exceed minimum standards, reward top performers, and reward employees who actively aid in the accomplishment of team goals. The President/CEO is authorized to develop and modify bonus and incentive pay plans within the budget set by the Board of Directors. See the Credit Union's Incentive Plan (separate document).

A. New Hire Referral Bonus

All regular employees may be eligible for a $250.00 referral bonus from a qualified applicant who is successfully hired. Qualified bonuses are paid in the first payroll after the new hire's starting date. For a referral to be eligible for the bonus, the current employee must notify Human Resources directly AND the applicant should note it on their application.

B. Summer Teller Return Bonus

All temporary seasonal employees may be eligible for up to a $500.00 return bonus. The seasonal employee will be eligible for this bonus after completing the second seasonal period in which they fulfill a minimum 12-week requirement. Failure to fulfill the 12-week requirement may result in a reduction or no bonus.

Employee Benefits

Levo Credit Union has established a variety of employee benefit programs designed to assist you and your eligible dependents in meeting the financial burdens that can result from illness and disability and to help you plan for retirement. This portion of the handbook contains a very general description of the benefits to which you may be entitled as an employee of the credit union. Employees may need to affirm/waive enrollment annually for all plans. Please understand that this general explanation is not intended to, and does not, provide you with all the details of these benefits. Therefore, this handbook does not change or otherwise interpret the terms of the official plan documents. Your rights can be determined only by referring to the full text of the official plan documents. To the extent that any of the information contained in this handbook is inconsistent with the official plan documents, the provisions of the official documents will govern in all cases.

Nothing contained in the benefit plans described herein shall be held or construed to create a promise of employment for future benefits, or a binding contract between the credit union and staff or their dependents, for benefits or any other purpose. All employees shall remain subject to discharge or discipline to the same extent as if these benefits had not been put into effect.

As in the past, the Credit Union reserves the right, in its sole and absolute discretion, to amend, modify, or terminate, in whole or in part, any or all the provisions of the benefit plans described herein without notice to the extent permitted by law.

1. Qualifying Life Events

Certain life events impact you and your dependents' rights to enroll and remain in benefit plans. In the instance of a qualifying life event, the employee must report the change to Human Resources within 31 days of the event. The employee may also be required to provide documentation within the same 31-day period for the qualifying event to be approved. Failure to notify or provide necessary paperwork may prevent the employee from making any benefit changes and/or impact coverage. Their next opportunity to make benefit changes would be during the next Open Enrollment period or upon experiencing another qualifying life event, whichever comes first.

Examples of qualifying events may include marriage or divorce, birth or adoption of a child, death of a spouse, employee and/or dependent involuntary loss of other coverage, employee and/or dependent newly eligible for other coverage, employee newly eligible for coverage, dependent reaches age 26 or change in student status. Employees should see Human Resources to determine whether their situation may be considered a qualifying event.

For more complete information regarding any of the benefit programs, please refer to the Summary Plan Descriptions or Certificates of Coverage. If you misplace these descriptions, please contact Human Resources for another copy.

2. Benefit Premiums

Employees who work 30 or more hours a week are eligible to participate in the credit union's group insurance programs. Bi-weekly premiums for elected benefits will begin on the first paycheck of the month in which the benefit coverage begins regardless of the pay period that paycheck is covering. Since benefits continue through the end of the month in which a termination occurs, a full month of bi-weekly premiums will be deducted from the terminated employee's final paycheck if the terminating employee only has one paycheck in that month.

3. Health Insurance

Open enrollment for Health Insurance is January 1st of each year. Dependents as defined in the Group Certificate of Coverage are also eligible. Coverage begins on the 1st of the month after 30 days of employment and is subject to the plan documents' terms and conditions. Medical insurance benefits end on the last day of the month following the termination date. Options for continued medical insurance coverage under COBRA (Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act) are available and will generally allow for continued coverage for up to 18 months in the event of an employee's termination, or reduction in hours, and for up to 36 months for dependents if a qualifying event occurs. Specific information regarding continuation coverage will be provided upon separation from employment or another qualifying event.

The Credit Union will provide coverage of health insurance premiums at the following rates:

- Employee only/80% of the premium cost
- Employee/Dependent dollar amount of coverage will be paid equivalent to the 80% coverage on the employee only plus 50% of the difference in premiums between employee only coverage and the dependent coverage elected.
- Employees will be responsible for the remaining premium costs.

Four plans are available, they are:

- Employee only
- Employee & Spouse
- Employee & Dependent
- Family Coverage

Specific information about the health insurance plan and coverage will be provided upon enrollment.

4. Dental Insurance

Open enrollment for Dental Insurance is January 1st of each year. Dependents, as defined in the Group Certificate of Coverage, are also eligible. Coverage begins on the 1st of the month after 30 days of employment and subject to the plan documents' terms and conditions. Dental insurance benefits end on the last day of the month following the termination date. Options for continued dental insurance coverage under COBRAare available and will generally allow for continued coverage from the provider for up to 18 months in the event of an employee's termination, or reduction in hours, and for up to 36 months for dependents if a qualifying event occurs. Other COBRA benefits may apply as provided by law. Specific information regarding continuation coverage will be provided upon separation from employment or another qualifying event.

Credit Union will provide coverage of insurance premiums at the following rates:

- Employee only 75% of the premium costs
- Employee/Dependent dollar amount of coverage will be paid equivalent to the 75% coverage on the employee only
- Employee will be responsible for the remaining premium costs

Four plans are available, they are:

- Employee only
- Employee & Spouse
- Employee & Dependent
- Family Coverage

5. Vision Insurance

Open enrollment for Vision Insurance is January 1st of each year. Dependents, as defined by the group certificate of coverage, are also eligible. Coverage begins the first day of the month after 30 days of employment and is subject to the plan documents' terms and conditions. Vision insurance benefits end the last day of the month following the termination date. The Credit Union does not pay any of the premiums on this insurance.

6. Group Life Insurance

Open enrollment for Group Life Insurance is offered January 1st of each year. However, employees can make changes throughout the year, pending underwriting approval. The premium is paid for by the credit union. Coverage begins on the first day of employment. The life insurance coverage equals 1 times the annual salary up to $100,000. Life insurance benefits cease on the date of termination unless the employee elects to convert the policy and pay for it at their own expense.

Employees are offered the option to buy additional coverage for themselves and/or their dependents at their own expense.

All eligibility for benefits will be determined under the terms and conditions set forth in the applicable plan documents.

7. Short Term Disability

Employees are eligible for short term disability insurance coverage following a 14-day elimination period. Accrued PTO will be charged during the elimination period. Coverage for short term disability insurance begins on the first day of employment and the premium is paid for by the credit union. The policy will cover employee's salary at 66.67% of their weekly income to a maximum weekly benefit of $1,500 subject to the terms and conditions of the plan documents. PTO will be paid out to cover the remaining 33.33% of an employee's weekly income. Short-term disability coverage ceases on the termination date except for approved claims. Please refer to the Certificate of Coverage for more specific information.

8. Long Term Disability

Employees are eligible for long term disability salary continuance insurance policy once they have satisfied a 90-day elimination period. Coverage for long-term disability insurance begins on the first day of employment, and the credit union pays the premium. Eligible employees will receive a monthly benefit equal to 66.67% of their monthly income, up to a maximum monthly benefit of $6,000 subject to the terms and conditions of the plan documents. Long term disability coverage ceases on the date of termination except for approved claims. Please refer to the Certificate of Coverage for more specific information.

9. EAP (Employee Assistance Program)

Levo Credit Union offers a voluntary and professional service that provides information, counseling, and referral services to all employees and their qualified dependents. EAP services are free and completely confidential.

For more information on the EAP, see Self Service or Benefits Portal or contact Human Resources.

10. Holidays

Regular employees are given the following holidays with pay; however, if a holiday falls on a Saturday or Sunday alternative paid time off will be at the discretion of management.

New Year's Day (January 1st)

Martin Luther King Day (Third Monday of January)

Presidents' Day (Third Monday of February)

Memorial Day (Last Monday of May)

Juneteenth (June 19th)

Independence Day (July 4th)

Labor Day (1st Monday of September)

Columbus Day (2nd Monday of October)

Veterans' Day (11th of November)

Thanksgiving (4th Thursday of November)

Christmas (December 25th)

Christmas Eve is not a noted paid holiday. However, it is customary for the Credit Union to close all offices at noon on Christmas Eve day. Because of the many inconsistencies in schedules between branches and/or departments, both full-time and part-time qualifying employees are paid for hours worked and then are paid additional Holiday hours up to their normally scheduled hours. Any employee who is approved to take PTO that day will be charged PTO for the number of hours they are normally scheduled.

If a paid holiday occurs during an employee's personal time off (PTO), the employee will not be charged PTO for the holiday.

An employee working less than 24 hours a week and paid hourly will be given the day off without pay.

Employees working 24 hours or more and paid hourly will be paid holiday pay prorated based on the number of normal hours worked.

Holiday hours do not count in calculating physical hours worked in determining overtime.

Hourly employees who work any hours on a holiday may be required to take additional time off during that same payroll week.

11. Personal Time Off (PTO)

PTO hours accrue for regular full-time employees on a per pay period basis on the following schedule:

Years of Service	Accruals Hours Per Pay Period
0-5 years	4.93 hours
6-15 years	6.47 hours

16+ years	8.00 hours

Accruals increase on the first paycheck following the anniversary of the completed number of years of service.

Regularly scheduled part-time employees who work 24-39 or more hours per week will earn PTO hours based on normally scheduled work hours (i.e., 24 hours per week earn 24/40 or 60%).

Employees will not be allowed to accrue any hours over 320. If an employee reaches 320 accrued hours, the employee will stop accruing additional PTO until the employee uses leave and the balance goes below 320. At that time, the employee will accrue PTO leave again subject to the 320-hour maximum.

Employees begin accruing PTO time immediately upon hire. PTO will not be approved in the first 90 days except for extenuating needs.

Employees will not be paid any accrued hours if employment is terminated within the first 90 days of employment. If an employee terminates after 90 days and has any accrued PTO time remaining, that time will be paid out on their final paycheck. All PTO will be paid out at the employee's base hourly rate or salary without consideration of commissions or bonuses.

PTO hours do not count in calculating physical hours worked in determining overtime. PTO requests in advance will be charged as requested and may not be reduced by other unapproved hours worked.

Employees are not allowed to run the balance of their accrued PTO hours negative. If, for any reason, the employee has used more PTO time than has been accrued (including but not limited to administrative or timekeeping errors), those hours will be deducted from their final paycheck.

Vacation bidding periods are offered twice each year. All requests for PTO during the bidding process, such as requests from the same department for the same days, will require supervisor approval with final approval by the Executive Vice President while applying the minimum staffing requirements as established by management. Departments are encouraged to collaborate and develop an equitable schedule for the most popular holiday weeks. No requests for PTO leave will be considered before the annual bidding process is completed. This does not include the scheduling of FMLA leave. In the bidding process, full weeks will override individual or multiple days; and multiple days less than a week do not override individual days. All requests after the completion of the bidding process will be on a first come first served basis. Approval of PTO requests is based upon supervisor discretion and is not automatically guaranteed. Requests after completion of the bidding process should be submitted to your immediate supervisor for consideration at least 3 days in advance whenever possible.

All management employees are required to take at least 5 consecutive days of leave each year.

Unscheduled Time Off

Unscheduled PTO hours are intended for the following purposes: personal illness, family illness, emergency situations, etc. Use of unscheduled PTO hours will require that you notify the opening staff and your supervisor at least one hour before your scheduled start time. Your immediate supervisor will approve unscheduled PTO hour requests based upon scheduling and available coverage.

Following three (3) consecutive days of absence with proper notification due to an employee's own medical condition, an employee may be required to provide a doctor's note indicating they are fit for duty and are allowed to return to work.

Unpaid Time Off

Unpaid time off is generally not allowed for non-emergent circumstances. All accrued paid leave must be exhausted before any request for unpaid leave is considered. Requests of more than 8 hours must have the approval of the VP of Human Resources or EVP of Strategy & Service. Supervisor discretion may allow for limited unpaid time off to be given in rare circumstances of emergency or medical necessity but never for non-emergent situations. Employees are expected to budget their accrual hours wisely. Accruals stop during any period of unpaid leave.

12. Funeral/Bereavement Leave

Reasonable time off may be granted for absences necessitated by death in the immediate family. We define immediate family as spouses or parents, siblings, children (including adopted, foster, step and miscarriage), grandparents, grandchildren, and in-laws of the same types. The credit union may grant up to three company-paid workdays off.

Extended leave may be given but must be charged to PTO or leave without pay.

Funeral leave or bereavement leave for other circumstances may be taken as PTO or time off without pay. All requests for Funeral Leave should be made to the immediate supervisor.

13. Time off to Vote

Voting leave is provided when the employee's regular work schedule conflicts with times polls are open. Employees are encouraged to vote outside of normal working hours, if possible. Employees are asked to arrange with their supervisor before election day if they need to request time away from work to vote.

14. Military Leave

Employees who are in the Armed Forces of the United States will be granted leaves of absence in accordance with federal and state laws governing such leaves. When an employee goes on extended military duty, only PTO leave accumulated up to that time can be used, however, the time spent in the Armed Services on military leave of absence shall be considered in figuring the employee's number of years of continuous service and other benefits required by law.

15. Family Medical Leave

Levo Credit Union recognizes the importance of personal and family responsibilities and provides time away from work to eligible employees in accordance with the Family Medical Leave Act of 1993 ("FMLA"). For eligibility, please refer to FMLA Policy in the Personnel Policies section of this document.

16. Jury Duty and Subpoenas

When an employee is called for jury duty or is subpoenaed as a witness in a criminal court case in which the credit union is involved, the credit union will pay him/her for their normally scheduled hours and ask that any amount that he/she receives for jury fees should be returned to the credit union. The difference between the salary and the fees received will be allowed only for the time required to be present in court, plus reasonable travel time. Any check payments received by the employee for time served should be signed over to the Credit Union and forwarded to Human Resources for proper processing. Employees must furnish satisfactory documentation to their supervisor as to their jury duty requirements. If an employee chooses to take time spent as a juror or witness as PTO leave, he may retain all fees and receive PTO pay.

While serving on jury duty or serving as a criminal witness, all employees are required to report to their supervisor about their availability to work each day. All employees are required to report immediately to work if the court releases them from their duty during a weekday.

Unless serving as a criminal witness, an employee will not be paid by the Credit Union for time taken for court appearance in cases in which he/she is personally involved, in which the credit union is not involved, or appears voluntarily. This time must be taken as PTO leave or leave without pay.

Travel expenses received by the individual in connection with jury duty or appearances as a witness may be retained by him/her when he/she is reimbursed.

17. Volunteer Time Off (VTO)

All regular full-time employees can volunteer up to 12 hours per calendar year with a 501(c)(3) nonprofit or acceptable organization. Part-time employees (working less than 30 hours per week) can volunteer up to 6 hours per calendar year. Employees will be paid at their normal pay rate for the volunteer hours used during their scheduled work shifts. Use of VTO cannot cause overtime during any work week. VTO is refreshed at the beginning of each calendar year with any unused hours from the previous year being forfeited. New employees are eligible to participate after 90 days of employment. All employees must be in good standing (not on probation or under warnings, etc.) to use VTO hours. Use of VTO hours is intended for the following types of purposes: participation in reading or mentoring programs, volunteering at a local food bank, cleaning a park or highway, home building projects such as Habitat for Humanity, community sponsored events, business events, and other approved organizations such as Junior Achievement, United Way, SF Chamber, etc. Since member service is our priority, VTO approval and staffing will be closely monitored and pre-approved by direct supervisors. Personal Time Off (PTO) will be given priority over VTO. VTO will be requested and recorded in our online timekeeping system. If an employee terminates employment, any unused VTO hours will be forfeited. Employees are asked to wear their Levo Volunteer t-shirt unless the charitable organization requires specific dress attire. Use of VTO cannot be counted toward Levo's Community Involvement Volunteer Tracking Program which is primarily for volunteering done outside of work time or done by taking your own PTO time.

18. Flexible Spending

Employees who work 30 hours or more a week are eligible to participate in the optional flexible spending account (FSA). New Hire enrollment is at the first of the month following their 90-day anniversary. The credit union adopts a FSA which allows employees to save on their eligible health care and dependent care expenses every year by using pre-tax dollars. The Plan is intended to qualify as a "Cafeteria Plan" within the meaning of Section 125(d) of the Internal Revenue Code. Open enrollment in annually on January 1st.

19. Retirement Plans

Levo Credit Union provides a Defined Benefit Cash Balance Pension Plan. In addition, a 401(k) Defined Contribution Plan is available to eligible employees. A 457(b) is offered to a select group of qualifying employees.

A. Defined Benefit Pension Plan

TruStage administers Levo Credit Union's Defined Benefit Pension Services. To be eligible for the pension plan, employees must work at least 1,000 hours in any given year. Levo Credit Union operates under two different defined benefit formulas. Employees hired prior to 1-1-2015 will receive benefits under the traditional defined benefit formula. Employees hired on or after 1-1-2015 will receive benefits under the Cash Balance formula. Both plans are 100% paid by Levo Credit Union. The additional details of the plans are set forth in the plan documents.

B. 401(k)

TruStage is the approved provider for the employee's 401(k) Plan. Following 90 days of service, regular employees who are at least 19 years old are eligible to participate in the 401(k) plan are eligible to participate beginning at the first of the month following their 90-day anniversary. Newly eligible employees will be automatically enrolled into the 401(k) plan with a 1% contribution that will be established through payroll deduction. There is an escalation of the automatic deferral of 1% annually up to 6%. Employees who do not wish to participate must complete the online enrollment process to waive enrollment no later than 30 days after becoming eligible. The Credit Union is non-participating in the plan contributions. Employees can change their contributions at any time. The additional details of the plans are set forth in the plan documents.

C. 457(b)

Levo Credit Union maintains a 457(b) Plan. In compliance with Department of Labor requirements, the Plan is maintained for "a select group of management or highly compensated employees'", as determined by the Plan Administrator and/or Board of Directors. Eligible employees will be notified at the time they become qualified to participate. Employees can change their contributions at any time. If there is a discrepancy between the Plan document and the Summary Plan Description, the Plan document is controlling. The credit union is non-participating in the plan contributions.

Please refer to the Summary Plan for further details or contact Human Resources.

20. Workers' Compensation and Injury Reporting

The Credit Union participates in a worker's compensation plan by paying premiums due according to the law and the rules of South Dakota. The plan covers employees against loss of income and most medical expenses incurred because of a work-related injury.

Each employee must make an immediate report no later than 3 days after any injuries that occur on the job or are job-related. A failure to timely report an injury or illness may result in a delay or denial of benefits.

21. Employee Accounts

Employees are strongly encouraged to open an account at the credit union to benefit from and gain personal knowledge of our credit union products and services. Employee requests for account(s) or loan(s) must be approved by a Branch Manager or higher and will be reviewed or underwritten in strict accordance with our written policies. Employee accounts will be treated like any other credit union member accounts with no special treatment or exceptions made regarding decisions or fees. Employee account(s) will be assigned certain restrictions which will allow protection against unauthorized access. Employees who open a credit union account are encouraged to enroll for electronic statements. If an employee willfully handles their checking account in a financially irresponsible manner, they may be subject to appropriate disciplinary action as determined by management. Employees who are members of the credit union should be aware that their account(s) will be subject to additional audits by audit personnel as part of our internal controls.

A. Employee Loans

A Credit Union employee should not, under any circumstances, process a loan application on their own account, or for a family member.

For all employees, CEO and Volunteer loans please refer to Levo's Consumer Loan Policy, Business Loan Policy, and Mortgage Loan Policy.

B. Unauthorized Transactions

You should not do transactions on your own account except through home banking signed in as a member. All transactions and account changes should be processed by another employee.

You should not process any transactions on any accounts to which you are a party, or if the account is that of a close nature (close friends and family, someone living with you, etc.)

C. Financial Responsibility

Levo Credit Union determines a member's creditworthiness by the 4 Cs of Credit (Character, Capacity, Capital, and Conditions). To that end, the Credit Union considers these factors when deciding to hire. The Credit Union strongly believes that our staff should maintain their accounts and other financial obligations with the highest standards of responsibility and integrity. No employee should incur financial obligations that he/she cannot fulfill. Employees are expected to set an example as being good money managers and should guard against the use of the credit union for personal or financial advantage or special privilege. Examples of behavior that may be considered risky could be things such as: habitual overdraft activity, over-extensions of credit, no payment/past due payments, judgments and garnishments, and other noticeable declines in credit worthiness. Failure to adhere to these high standards may be cause for discipline up to and including termination as permitted by state and federal law.

22. Reimbursement for Employee Travel Expenses

The Board of Directors will approve an employee training and travel budget annually. Management will administer this budget. This travel policy will be used with reimbursement for employee expenses as listed.

Employees must submit expense reports within thirty days after the expense is incurred and are asked to provide a Levo share account for reimbursement. Local travel mileage, however, may be submitted quarterly. Employees may make travel arrangements but are encouraged to plan their trip as early as possible and to obtain the lowest possible fares based on advance reservation and coach travel. With supervisor's approval, employees can request from the Accounting Department a travel advance up to the daily per diem.

Educational coursework required by the credit union may take an employee out of town for an extended period of time. An employee will be paid a regular 40-hour week or normal salary. One hundred percent of all tuition will be paid and any allowances for travel expenses will be reimbursed as stated below.

Meals

Travel per Diem is $75.00 per day, regardless of conference provided meals and independent of the time of departure or return.

Mileage

Employees utilizing a private vehicle while on authorized Credit Union related business shall be reimbursed based on the current IRS (Internal Revenue Service) mileage rate. Cost of travel by other modes will be reimbursed based on cost but the lower of mileage rate or actual cost of other methods of travel. The Credit Union assumes no liability for any vehicle damage incurred when the private vehicle of a Credit Union Employee is used on Credit Union business. The cost of travel by bus, train or plane will be reimbursed at the actual cost.

Interbranch Travel

Mileage incurred when traveling between branches will be reimbursed based on the number of miles driven by the employee at the current IRS mileage reimbursement rate.

Other Expenses

When traveling on Credit Union business, other expenses (taxi fare, official phone calls, etc.) will be reimbursed when justified and reasonable, and accompanied by a receipt (when possible) for such expense and attached to a signed expense report.

Compensation for Travel Time

Employees in positions classified as non-exempt under the Fair Labor Standards Act are eligible for compensation for the time they spend traveling. The compensation an employee receives depends upon the kind of travel and whether the travel time takes place within normal work hours or outside of normal work hours. Employees are responsible for accurately tracking, calculating, and reporting travel time to their time clock supervisor for entry in their time clock in accordance with this policy. Meal periods should be deducted from all travel time.

Travel during normal working hours

Any portion of authorized travel time that takes place within normal work hours on any day of the week, including Saturday and Sunday, is treated as work hours. Travel time within normal work hours will be paid at the non-exempt employee's regular hourly rate and will be factored into overtime calculations. An employee will receive his/her regular hourly rate for all authorized travel time spent as the driver of an automobile and this time will be factored into overtime calculations, when applicable.

Travel outside normal working hours

All authorized travel time spent driving an automobile (as the driver, not as a passenger) outside normal working hours is treated as work hours. However, according to FLSA (Fair Labor Standards Act), travel as a "passenger" is not automatically treated as work hours. Nevertheless, if an employee's passenger travel time is incurred outside normal working hours, the Credit Union allows a supervisor the discretion to either compensate non-exempt employees for their passenger travel time or allow the employee to reduce overtime caused from such travel by allowing them additional time off during the same work week.

23. Corporate Card Usage

A. To expedite expense reconciliation and to create a controlled environment, corporate credit cards shall be issued under the following authority:

- Employees – The President/CEO, EVP, and VPs shall have the authority to issue Corporate Credit Cards to employees within their line of reporting and deemed necessary. No President/CEO, EVP or VP issued card shall have a limit of more than $5,000.00.

B. Receipts for all transactions will be kept by each person issued a card. These receipts will be forwarded monthly to the employee's immediate supervisor, with a completed and signed approved Visa Expense form for reconcilement with the monthly statement.

C. Employees' immediate supervisors shall have the authority for all approval of employee expenses.

D. Any charges not deemed appropriate business expenses shall be immediately reimbursed by the employee and may be cause for card suspension.

E. Each person issued a card shall take care to protect it against loss or theft. Lost/stolen cards must be reported to the President/CEO immediately.

F. All provisions in this policy shall be adhered to by the cardholder. The credit union issued cards may be used only for credit union business.

24. Travel Accident Insurance

A Travel Accident Policy will cover all employees and volunteers with coverage up to $250,000 for credit union business related travel accidents.

25. Employee Discounts

Levo Credit Union offers several discounts on services to its employees:

A. One free box of checks per calendar year with your Levo Credit Union sharedraft checking account.

B. All employees are given a discount of $30.00 off an auto GAP policy.

C. All employees are given a discount of $100.00 off an auto Warranty policy.

D. All employees with a starting employment date before 01/01/2020 and who held a Levo Better Rate or Better Reward credit card before 01/01/2020 will receive a discount of 2% off the current variable rate on the specified card. The rate will be in effect until the employee terminates employment with the credit union. Employees starting after 01/01/2020 are not eligible for such a discount.

E. All employees pay ½ of the current origination fee for approved owner-occupied mortgage loans at Levo Credit Union. Employees must still meet all other qualification requirements.

26. Flexible Time Off (Exempt Employees Only)

There is no legal requirement or obligation to grant additional time off to exempt employees. However, an immediate supervisor may choose to grant extra time off to exempt employees who have incurred additional hours for special projects, working weekends or any other normally scheduled time off. Immediate supervisors may deny the request if the use of this flexible time will "unduly disrupt" the department's operations. Additional time off should be requested in advance. Levo Credit Union will generally allow one-half of the extra hours worked to be taken as flexible time off. Additional time should be taken in no more than 4-hour increments per request unless special circumstances exist in which the immediate supervisor approves otherwise.

27. Service Awards

In recognition and appreciation for long and loyal service to Levo Credit Union, service awards are presented for each 5-year increment in years of service.

28. Lactation/Breastfeeding

Levo Credit Union supports breastfeeding mothers by accommodating the mother who wishes to express breast milk during her workday when separated from her newborn child. For up to 12 months from childbirth, any full-time employee breastfeeding her child will be provided reasonable break time to express breast milk for her newborn. The employee may utilize her break time to express milk. The employee and her immediate supervisor will agree on a flexible work schedule, including scheduling breaks and permitting work patterns that provide time for expression of breast milk. However, if the employee's lactation hours exceed 40 minutes per workday the additional time will be unpaid. The employees are responsible for appropriately accounting for this time on their timecards. The Credit Union will designate convenient, sanitary, safe, and private location, other than a restroom, allowing privacy for breastfeeding or expressing breast milk. Employees wishing to use a Lactation Room must make a direct request to Human Resources.

29. Authorization to Sign Documents

As per our Administration Policies, the President/CEO is authorized to enter into contracts on behalf of the credit union. Employees should take great caution when presented with non-credit union forms from members to ensure that they do not sign and/or obligate the credit union in matters in which they are not authorized to do so. Any questions regarding documents should be forwarded to your supervisor for further analysis.

Training and Development

1. Staff Training

Levo Credit Union aims to develop a culture where training is a process, not a destination. We encourage all employees to be lifelong learners, we strive for continual improvement of our skills to help our members live better, and we expect Managers to support and monitor the learning and development process of their employees. Levo is committed to providing on-going training to all employees, supervisors, and management. We provide annual training on required and essential training topics such as robbery, harassment, diversity, products and services, and benefits. We also attempt to provide regular training opportunities that support the needs and goals of the credit union and our staff in a variety of formats such as facilitator-led and virtual-led, videos, streaming online courses, motivational reading library, Credit Union specific topics presented in-person by staff, training with one-on-one coaching, and webinars, seminars, and workshops. Employees are expected to be prepared, engaged, and active participants in all training sessions and opportunities.

See Levo Credit Union's Training Program documents in Community for more information regarding our Training and Development Program.

2. Tuition Assistance - For Staff Members Only

The Credit Union believes in employees striving to better themselves. Therefore, the Credit Union provides an education assistance program for all employees employed by the Credit Union for at least one year.

Tuition assistance requests should be made by March 1st in any given year to guarantee assistance. Requests for assistance can be made at any time, but failure to apply by March 1st may reduce or eliminate your reimbursement amount. The Credit Union will only reimburse business related education courses. Pre-approval will be granted by the VP HR (Human Resources) and President/CEO based upon available budget and will be divided equally among applicants with a maximum annual benefit of $1500 per employee.

- The Credit Union will issue a 1-year Term Signature Loan at a rate of 0% in the applicant's name for the approved amount.
- The employee must present proof of payment and completion of the course with at least a B grade.
- When the loan comes due, the Credit Union will verify employment and will pay off the loan.
- If the employee is no longer employed when the loan comes due, the loan will be re-written for the ex-employee to repay at the current terms and rates. Failure to repay by the new due date would result in default on the part of the ex-employee.

Open/Close Procedures

To ensure the safety of all employees there are Opening and Closing Procedures that must be followed by all staff. For a full copy of the complete list of steps, please refer to the Credit Union's Opening and Closing Procedures found in the Credit Union's Physical Security Program. Supervisors should be notified of any occurrence of their employee(s) not following proper procedures so those employees can be instructed on how to protect themselves and the Credit Union.

1. Opening

Only employees responsible for opening the building should arrive before 7:15am. Designated Opening Employees arriving between the hours of 7:00am – 7:30am should follow Levo's full Opening Procedures in Levo's Physical Security Program on our intranet.

Arriving Employees should be aware of their surroundings when driving up and exiting their car. They should look for the "all clear" signal before leaving their car and entering the building. If the current all-clear signal has been displayed, the employee may leave their car and approach the entrance. Employees should enter the office briskly and avoid gathering outside the doorway.

If the all clear is not initiated by 7:30 a.m., the employee should attempt to call the opener at that location. If no one answers or the opener answers but acts suspicious in any way, the waiting employee should hang up, remain in their locked car, and immediately call the police and explain that an ambush may have taken place and an employee is inside the building. They should try to keep other employees from approaching the building and wait in their locked vehicles for the police to arrive. The most important of all steps is to REMAIN CALM!! It could mean the safety of the employees and their co-workers.

The doors should remain locked until the office opens for business and no unauthorized personnel should be admitted to the office prior to opening.

2. Closing

All cash drawers, currency, negotiable instruments, and similar valuables including files and other vital records will be secured in the office vault, safe or file cabinets at the earliest practicable time.

At closing time, the office doors will be locked. Any employee who assists a member after hours is responsible for ensuring the member exits the office and that the doors are locked after them. The door will be relocked after each member leaves and no unauthorized personnel will be admitted into the office after the doors are locked.

All employees are instructed to be especially alert for strangers or suspicious behavior at the end of the business day. All suspicious activity or behavior should be kept in a log at each branch. If suspicions are aroused, employees will immediately notify the Branch Manager or his/her designee and/or call 911.

Before leaving the building, employees should be aware of their surroundings. When possible, employees should exit the building with another person.

The Designated Closing employees should follow the Credit Union's full Closing Procedures making sure to do a thorough walk-through and inspection and will ensure that all equipment, lighting, and alarms are set. Before leaving the building, employees should be aware of their surroundings. Every effort should be made for employees to exit the building with another person.

3. Inclement Weather

In the event of severe weather, the supervisor in charge, generally the President/CEO, will determine the inability to open the Credit Union or to close the Credit Union early. There may also be situations when the Credit Union has a late start.
Employees are to reach out to their immediate supervisor and use Announcements in their Self-Service Portal to confirm if we are open, have a late start, or are closed due to inclement weather.

In the event we announce a late start, we recommend employees check back again before leaving for work to make sure things have not changed.

Employees will receive their regular pay for the hours they normally work during situations when the credit union closes or starts late due to weather.

While at work we understand that there are concerns, at times, with weather situations. If an employee feels they should go home early, they should inform their supervisor and we will make every effort to accommodate the request. The decision to allow employees to leave early will be based on the number of people requesting to leave and the distance they need to travel. If you leave early or come in late due to inclement weather, you may make up the time during the current work week or use available PTO time.

In the event of a tornado or severe storm that requires emergency action, the supervisor on duty will direct all employees and members present to the vault, basement, or the safest interior location within the building until the “All Clear” signal is given.

Temporary closing due to threatening conditions (i.e., bomb threats, gas leaks, etc.) will be determined by the supervisor on duty. Instructions to all employees and members will be announced asking for orderly evacuation of the building.

Supervisors will be responsible for assuring that all members and staff have left the building prior to themselves. Please ensure that all people present have left the immediate area of the building. Employees will meet at the pre-determined area to evaluate the situation and take a roll call. The decision to re-enter the building will be announced at that location – all employees are to remain there for their instructions.

All employees should be familiar with Levo Credit Union’s emergency procedures as found in Levo Credit Union’s Disaster Recovery and Emergency Plan on the intranet.

PERSONNEL POLICIES

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

The Credit Union believes in equal employment opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment in all terms and conditions of employment.

The President/CEO of the Credit Union designates the VP of Human Resources as the Equal Employment Opportunity Administrator (EEO Administrator). The VP of Human Resources oversees the AAP (Affirmative Action Plan) development, modification, implementation, and reporting requirements and conducts management updates. The EEO Administrator also analyzes the Credit Union's selection process to further the principles of equal employment opportunity.

As part of the Credit Union's commitment to this overall process, it will seek to ensure affirmative action to provide equality of opportunity in all aspects of employment, and that all personnel activities, such as recruitment, selection, training, compensation, benefits, discipline, promotion, transfer, layoff and termination processes remain free of illegal discrimination and harassment based upon race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy, sexual orientation or gender identity), national origin, age(40 or older), disability, genetic information (including family medical history) and protected veteran status or any other protected characteristic as established by law. Regular review by the Credit Union helps to ensure compliance with this policy.

Preference may be granted, if consistent with applicable federal laws and regulations, during the hiring and promotion process to veterans, the spouse of a veteran who has sustained a disability, and the surviving spouse of a deceased member of the US armed forces who died while serving on active duty during a time of military conflict or who died as a result of such service.

Appropriate disciplinary action may be taken against any employee willfully violating this policy.

ADA and ADAAA

Levo Credit Union is committed to complying with all applicable provisions of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990(ADA) and the Americans with Disabilities Act Amendments Act of 2008 (ADAAA). It is the credit union's policy not to discriminate against any qualified employee or applicant regarding any terms, conditions, or privileges of employment because of such an individual's disability.

Consistent with this policy of nondiscrimination, the Credit Union will provide reasonable accommodations to a qualified individual with a disability, as defined by the ADA and applicable state and local law, provided that such accommodation does not constitute an undue hardship on the Credit Union.

Qualified individuals with a disability may make requests for accommodation to the VP of Human Resources. On receipt of an accommodation request, Human Resources will meet with the requesting individual to discuss and identify the precise limitations resulting from the disability and the potential accommodation that the Credit Union might make to help overcome those limitations. Human Resources in conjunction with any Credit Union representatives identified as having a need to know (e.g., the individual's supervisor) will determine the feasibility of the requested accommodation, considering various factors, including, but not limited to, the nature and cost of the accommodation and the accommodation's impact on the operation of the Credit Union, including its impact on the ability of other employees to perform their essential job functions and on the Credit Union's ability to conduct business.

Discrimination

Levo Credit Union is committed to a work environment in which all individuals are treated with respect and dignity. Everyone has the right to work in a professional atmosphere that promotes equal employment opportunities and prohibits discriminatory practices. Therefore, Levo Credit Union expects that all relationships among persons in the workplace will be business-like and free of bias, prejudice, and harassment.

It is the policy of Levo Credit Union to ensure equal employment opportunity without discrimination or harassment on the basis of race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy, sexual orientation or gender identity), national origin, age (40 or older), disability, genetic information (including family medical history) and protected veteran status or any other protected characteristic as established by law.

Family Medical Leave

Levo Credit Union recognizes the importance of personal and family responsibilities and provides time away from work to eligible employees in accordance with the Family Medical Leave Act of 1993 ("FMLA"). Accordingly, this policy entitles eligible employees a maximum of 12 weeks of unpaid leave during a rolling 12-month period measured backward from the date an employee uses any leave under this policy; or 26 weeks during a rolling 12-month period measured backward from the date an employee uses any leave under this policy to care for a covered service member.

To be eligible to apply for leave under the FMLA, the employee must have worked for the Credit Union for a total of at least 12 months and must have worked at least 1,250 hours during the 12-month period immediately preceding the start of the leave.

The Credit Union will grant eligible employees family medical leave for any of the following reasons:

- The birth of the employee's child if the leave is completed within twelve (12) months of the date of birth of the child;
- The placement for adoption or foster care of a child with the employee if the leave is completed within 12 months of the date of placement of the child;
- To care for an eligible family member if that individual has a serious health condition; or
- The employee has a serious health condition that makes it impossible for the employee to perform the essential functions of his or her job.
- If a family member is called to active duty or receives notice of an impending call to active duty in the Armed Forces in support of a contingency operation.
- To care for a family member who has incurred a serious injury or illness while on active duty in the Armed Forces.

The Credit Union will require employees to obtain a medical certification from the health care provider treating them or their family member verifying the need and length of medical leave. Employees will be given 15 days to return the medical certification. A failure to return the certification may result in the denial of covered leave. Employees who are on leave due to their own serious medical condition will be required to provide a release from their medical provider that they are able to return to work and perform the essential duties of their position with or without reasonable accommodation.

Upon your timely return from leave under this policy, the Credit Union will restore you to the same or an equivalent position, that is, a position with equivalent pay, benefits, responsibility, and other employment terms, unless business circumstances have impacted your position.

Under this policy, during periods of unpaid leave, you are not entitled to accrue benefits such as PTO. You will be required to use all accrued PTO time during the leave period. Once such benefits are exhausted, the balance of the leave will be without pay.

If you are enrolled in the Credit Union's medical, dental, vision and/or life insurance plans, you will retain the same coverage during your leave as long as you reimburse the company the amount it paid for your portion of the insurance premiums during the leave period. Arrangements should be made with Human Resources to ensure timely payment of premiums.

Leave to care for a child after birth, adoption, or placement in your home for foster care must be taken in consecutive workweeks. Leave taken for you, or a covered family member's serious health condition or Military Leave may be taken consecutively, intermittently, or on a reduced work/leave schedule based on certified medical necessity. In such instances, the Credit Union will follow applicable federal and state laws in reviewing and approving such leave requests.

When the need for leave is foreseeable, employees must provide verbal notice with an explanation of the reason(s) for the needed leave to their immediate supervisor, who will advise Human Resources. When an employee plans to take leave under this policy, the employee must give the company at least 30 days notice prior to the leave and must attempt to schedule the leave to minimize the effect on the Credit Union. If it is not possible to give a 30-day notice, the employee must give as much notice as is practical and comply with the Credit Union's normal call-in procedures. To apply for leave under this policy, eligible employees may request a Family Medical Leave request form from Human Resources.

When employees fraudulently invoke their benefits, they hurt everyone. For this reason, benefits fraud is prohibited. If you suspect that someone is committing fraud, please report your suspicions to Human Resources or the President/CEO.

Definitions

To help you better understand your FMLA eligibility, the following definitions are provided:

Family Member includes an employee's spouse, son, daughter, and parent (but not a parent "in-law"). A son or daughter is any child under 18 who is the biological, adopted, or foster child of the employee; or child whom the employee supervises on a day-to-day basis and for whom the employee is financially responsible. A son or daughter is also any child over 18 who is incapable of self-care because of a mental or physical disability. A parent is the biological parent of the employee, or one who stood in the place of the biological parent when the employee was a child.

Serious Health Condition is defined as an illness, injury, impairment or physical or mental condition that requires in-patient care in a hospital, hospice or residential medical care facility or that requires continuing treatment by a health care provider; a period of incapacity that makes an individual unable to attend work, school, or perform other daily activities for more than three (3) days and that requires continuing treatment by a health care provider; or continuing treatment by a health care provider for a chronic or long-term health condition that is so serious that, if not treated, would likely result in incapacity for more than three days.

The definition of serious health condition is not meant to cover short-term conditions where treatment and recovery are brief; routine physical examinations; or voluntary or cosmetic treatments that are not medically necessary unless in-patient hospital care is required.

A serious injury or illness as it applies to service members in the Armed Forces must be incurred while in the line of active duty which renders the member medically unfit to perform the duties of the member's office, grade, rank, or rating. Time off due to injury or illness can be for the purpose of undergoing medical treatment, recuperation, or therapy.

If you have questions, suggestions, or concerns about this policy, you should direct them to Human Resources.

Non-FMLA Medical Leave

Medical (including pregnancy) leaves of absence may be requested by full-time regular and part-time regular employees who do not qualify for FMLA leave. Eligible employees may be granted up to nine (9) weeks of leave within a 12-month period, measured back from the last time leave was taken.

If an employee expects to be absent for more than five consecutive workdays because of an illness, injury, or disability (including pregnancy), the employee may submit a written request for medical leave to Human Resources as far in advance of the anticipated leave date as practicable. If your absence is due to an emergency, you or a member of your immediate family must inform your supervisor or Human Resources as soon as is practicable; this should be followed up with a written leave request, normally submitted within three days of the beginning of your leave. All medical leave requests must be accompanied by appropriate medical certification from your physician, indicating the condition necessitating your leave request and your projected date of return to work.

Employees requesting a leave of absence will be required to use all accrued PTO time. Once the paid leave is exhausted the remainder of the leave will be unpaid. If the employee becomes eligible for FMLA before the end of their period of medical leave, the leave will be considered FMLA leave from the date of eligibility forward. The intention of non-FMLA leave is to bridge the gap to FMLA eligibility. If the employee is not eligible for FMLA during the leave period, the maximum non-FMLA leave is 9 weeks.

Employees may not perform work of any nature on a self-employed basis or for any other employer while on medical leave.

Before being permitted to return from medical leave, the employee will be required to present the Credit Union with a note from his or her physician indicating that the employee can return to work and performing the essential functions of the position, with or without reasonable accommodation. The Credit Union will consider making reasonable accommodation for any disability in accordance with applicable laws where required.

All benefits that operate on an accrual basis continue to accrue only during paid portions of leave. All group health benefits (e.g., medical insurance) continue during your leave.

Employees on medical leave will be responsible for payment of any employee portion of their benefit plans.

Unless applicable state or local law requires otherwise, reinstatement cannot be guaranteed to any employee returning from medical leave. The Credit Union endeavors, however, to place employees returning from leave in their former position or in a position comparable in status and pay, subject to the Company's ability to find qualified temporary replacements.

Open Door

It is the credit union's policy to encourage employee's ideas or suggestions and to try to resolve any job-related problems employees may have to promote a friendly work environment. Suggestions for improvements to the credit union's operations, products, policies or procedures and marketing ideas are always welcomed. These suggestions should be directed to the appropriate department/supervisor for review.

Employees who have job-related questions or problems are encouraged to discuss the matter with their supervisor. By working together, most issues should be able to be resolved in this manner. In the event the employee is uncomfortable discussing the matter with the supervisor, the employee may speak with Human Resources. There will be no discrimination against any employee for presenting a complaint or discussing a problem.

Dress Code/Personal Appearance

Levo Credit Union is proud of its professional image and how we are projected to the public is reflected in the appearance of our employees each day. As their trusted and knowledgeable business professional, our industry requires you to display the highest standards daily for the members seeking our guidance, input, and financial services. Employees contribute to the corporate culture and reputation in how they present themselves. Your professionalism is essential to make a favorable impression on our members and the community. Appropriate and suitable grooming displays employee pride and inspires confidence within us. Employees of Levo are expected to use good judgment in their appearance and always dress appropriately for our financial business environment including remote/virtual meetings. The credit union allows reasonable self-expression through personal appearance unless it conflicts with the employee's ability to perform their job effectively or with their specific work environment or is regarded as offensive or harassing towards others.

There is a diverse group of individuals working for Levo, all of whom have different interpretations of professional dress; whenever questioning the appropriateness of your attire, look to your Manager, Supervisor or Human Resources for guidance. A good rule of thumb for employees to follow when selecting business professional clothing is, if in doubt, to choose something else or inquire first.

Professional and appropriate dress attire is at management's discretion. A single warning will be given if your appearance is not considered professional, appropriate or in compliance. If there is another occurrence, you will be sent home (without pay) to change or abide properly. Failure to adhere to this policy will result in disciplinary action, including an individualized dress code for the employee in question and/or employment termination. If an employee may not be able to comply with this policy, they should speak with Human Resources.The credit union will make reasonable accommodations to this policy as applicable law requires.

Name Badge

Name badges are mandatory EVERY day and should be worn on the upper right side of your top during business hours and at any events outside of work where you are representing Levo Credit Union.

Your name badge must be worn:

- During all work shifts (if working @ a different branch on Saturday make sure your name badge is with you)
- At Levo Training events
- During Credit Union sponsored functions

Name Badge Changes (ordered at no charge to employee):

- Upon change of position
- Name changes

Immediately notify your Manager, Supervisor or Human Resources:

- Your name badge was forgotten for the current workday.
- If your name badge is lost or stolen.
- The magnetic back is lost.
- Your name badge has been broken or is unusable.

Replacement badges, if lost or recklessly damaged, a new badge will be ordered and a charge of $10/each will be deducted from your paycheck. You may also order additional badges at a charge of $10 each by contacting Human Resources. The cost will be deducted via payroll. Do not share, or switch name badges with other team members.

Guidelines for Business Dress

Employees should dress in business-appropriate attire, which includes slacks, skirts (no more than 3” above the knee), dresses (no more than 3” above the knee), oxford/button-down dress shirts, blouses, lightweight sweaters and suit/sports coats or blazers. The top strap width should be at least 3” across the top of the shoulder and cover undergarment straps. Men must wear a tie unless they wear a suit/sports coat. Classic accessories such as ties, watches, scarves, and jewelry are also appropriate. Work-appropriate shoes include dressy loafers or boat shoes with dark soles, dress boots, flats, oxfords, pumps less than 4 inches tall, and dress sandals.

Inappropriate attire includes sportswear such as t-shirts, chinos, yoga pants, sweatpants, sweatshirts and activewear, denim and jeans or anything appearing to be denim, casual shirts, flannel shirts, down vests and jackets, and t-shirts, spaghetti straps, strapless tops/dresses, backless tops/dresses, and unkempt clothing among other options. Low-cut tops, blouses, and dresses are not appropriate. Leggings are prohibited unless the tunic or dress worn with them is no more than 3” above the knee. Inappropriate shoes include tennis shoes, canvas shoes, sneakers, snow/hiking boots, and sandals with straps between the toes.

“Work-approved” logo wear is available for purchase and can be worn on any work day with acceptable bottoms or skirts.

Jean’s days are planned throughout the year. Appropriate attire for jeans days includes clean, non-ripped jeans and any logo-wear shirt or work-appropriate collared shirt, blouse, or sweater.

Facilities employees follow a different dress code appropriate for their duties. Proper attire includes work pants (like khakis or Carhartt’s), a polo shirt or short-sleeved button-down shirt, and comfortable work boots or tennis shoes. Inappropriate clothing includes jeans, T-shirts and shoes that could be hazardous.

General Appearance/Hygiene

- Recognizing that employees within and visitors to our Branch locations may have a sensitivity or allergic reaction to air-borne scents and products, please refrain from strong perfume, cologne, lotions, and other types of deodorizers. Employees concerned about scents or odors should contact their manager or Human Resources.
- Clothing must be clean without noticeable tears, stains, or odors.
- Cleanliness and a well-groomed appearance with your hair, nails, breath, and body is always expected.
- Any visible open sores or wounds should be covered, and bandages kept clean.
- Hair color and style should be professional – highlights and dyed hair are fine if they look natural. Avoid unnatural hair colors such as bright blues, purples, pinks, etc.
- Fingernails and toenails must be clean and trimmed. Nail colors should keep a professional appearance and length that does not interfere with your ability to work.
- Facial hair, including beards and mustaches, must always be trimmed and clean.
- Piercings: Ear piercings are generally permitted. Piercings that include large gauges or hardware (such as bars or heavy chains) are prohibited at work. Nonhollow ear gauges up to size 0G/8mm are permitted. Small nose studs are allowed. Tongue piercings must be removed or plugged with a clear acrylic plug. Any other facial piercings are prohibited.

- Tattoos: The visible part of any tattoo must measure no more than 4” x 3”. Tattoos must be covered on the face, front of the neck or cleavage area, and must not contain offensive, harassing, or violent words or images. Offensiveness to co-workers, members, vendors, or others in the workplace based on racial, sexual, religious, ethnic, or other characteristics or attributes of a sensitive or legally protected nature are prohibited. Ring band tattoos may be permitted on fingers.

Grievance

This section shall be the basis by which an employee shall appeal a discharge within the organizational structure of Levo Credit Union. Though the credit union is providing this review opportunity, it does not change the employee’s at-will status. It is intended only to provide an avenue to address concerns over terminations and other actions.

This policy is to facilitate communication and smooth operation of the credit union. The goal is to provide optimum service to the members in an atmosphere that inspires confidence and professionalism. Employees can express their concerns without fear of reprisal, and supervisors can more easily identify and solve problems in their areas of responsibility.

This credit union believes in an open communication policy. Employees who have complaints or disagreements are encouraged to try to resolve these problems by discussing them frankly with their supervisors. At the same time, the credit union recognizes that not all problems can be resolved in this manner, and employees may sometimes be reluctant to approach their supervisors.

All parties should make every effort to resolve the problem at the earliest stages and to deal in good faith throughout the process.

As such, this policy is intended to supplement, not replace, any other credit union policy that might pertain to the problem. Any problem considered to be of a sensitive nature which cannot be discussed with the supervisor/manager, the employee should bring the problem to the attention of the next appropriate level. If the problem cannot be resolved in this manner, it should be brought to the attention of the credit union Vice President of Human Resources, the President/CEO, and the Chairperson of the Board, in that order.

In cases of disciplinary action, changes in working conditions for employees or a failure to enforce policies and procedures, employees have the opportunity to attempt to resolve the problem through a grievance procedure.

1. If an individual employee wishes to appeal discharge, layoff, or change in working conditions, he or she may present a written statement to the Vice President of Human Resources within ten (10) days after he/she is informed of the discharge or change in working conditions. The written statement shall recite any facts which the employee believes should be considered and shall state the resolution the employee believes is appropriate. The Vice President of Human Resources will bring the statement to the appropriate level supervisors and shall consider the employee's statement and advise the employee or former employee of their final decision regarding the employee's complaint or grievance as soon as is administratively possible but not more than (60) days after the employee initiates the process.
2. If the appropriate level supervisors include the VP of Human Resources or the President/CEO, the written statement can be sent directly to the Board of Directors within ten (10) days after he/she is informed of the discharge or change in working conditions. The Board of Directors shall consider the employee's statement and advise the employee or former employee of their final decision regarding the employee's complaint or grievance as soon as is administratively possible but no more than (90) days after the employee initiates the process.
3. A complaint or grievance not submitted within the specified time limit or other time limit as mutually agreed upon is considered waived or settled.

Anti-Harassment

The Credit Union is committed to providing a work environment free of harassment.

Prohibited harassment includes conduct that has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an employee's work performance or experience or creating an environment that is hostile, intimidating, or offensive. Verbal, physical, sexual or any other form of harassment that belittles or demeans any individual based on age, race, color, religion, disability, sex, genetic information, national origin, or any other protected characteristic as established by law is prohibited.

Prohibited sexual harassment includes verbal, physical, sexual or any other form of behavior or comments that create a hostile work environment for another person because of their gender and involves male-to-female, female-to-male, male-to-male, and female-to-female harassment. Sexual advances; requests or demands for sexual favors; threats; physical conduct of a harassing nature; jokes; slurs; and other harassing language or conduct that is meant to intimidate or that negatively impacts an employee's work environment; or any other status or condition protected by applicable federal, state, or local laws is prohibited.

Harassment Free Workplace rules apply to every person in the workplace including volunteers, applicants, agents, contractors, members, vendors, and anyone else who participates in work-sponsored activities no matter his or her authority, position, or classification. The Credit Union prohibits harassment on company premises and at off-site company-sponsored events.

Charges of harassment will be promptly and thoroughly investigated. If the credit union determines harassment has occurred, appropriate relief for the employee bringing the complaint, and appropriate disciplinary action against the harasser, up to and including termination, will follow. The employee bringing the complaint may or may not be notified of the action taken against the harasser. In the event a non-employee subjects an employee to harassment in the workplace, the employee should immediately contact their supervisor or Human Resources.

Applicants, employees, and former employees are also protected from retaliation (punishment) for filing a charge or complaint of discrimination, participating in a discrimination investigation or lawsuit, or opposing discrimination (for example threatening to file a charge or complaint of discrimination).

1. Any employee who believes that the actions or words of a Manager, Supervisor, Volunteer, member, or fellow employee constitute unwelcome harassment, has a responsibility to report or the incident as soon as possible to your supervisor or Human Resources.
2. All harassment complaints must be investigated promptly, impartially, and confidentially by the appropriate level of management. If an employee/volunteer is not satisfied with the handling of a complaint or actions taken, then the employee should write a letter to the President/CEO or appropriate level of management explaining why he/she does not agree. This will be reviewed by the President/CEO or appropriate level of management who may consult with legal counsel if necessary. In all cases the employee is to be advised of the management's findings and conclusion.
3. Any employee, volunteer or manager/supervisor who is found, after appropriate investigation, to have engaged in harassment of another employee will be subject to appropriate disciplinary/or corrective action, depending on the circumstances, up to and including termination.

Workplace Anti-Bullying

Levo Credit Union supports a workplace free of bullying and will not tolerate bullying behavior. The Credit Union defines workplace bullying as repeated inappropriate behavior, either direct or indirect, at the place of work and/or in the course of employment which is unwelcome or unreasonable behavior that demeans, intimidates, or humiliates people. Bullying behaviors carried out by a group are considered a type of bullying called mobbing. Such behavior violates the Credit Union's Anti-harassment policy, which clearly states that all employees will be treated with dignity and respect.

Bullying may be intentional or unintentional. However, it must be noted that when an allegation of bullying is made, the intention of the alleged bully will not be given consideration when determining an appropriate discipline. As in sexual harassment, it is the effect of the behavior on the individual that is important. The Credit Union considers the following types of behavior examples of bullying:

- Verbal bullying: Slandering, ridiculing, or maligning a person or his or her family; persistent name calling that is hurtful, insulting or humiliating; using a person as the intended object of jokes that violate credit union policy; abusive and offensive remarks.
- Physical bullying: Pushing, shoving, kicking, poking, tripping, assault or threat of physical assault, damage to a person's work area or property.
- Gesture bullying: Nonverbal threatening gestures; glances that can convey threatening messages.
- Exclusion: Socially or physically excluding or disregarding a person in work-related and sponsored activities or communications in which all other members of a group, such as a department, are included.

Charges of workplace bullying will be promptly and thoroughly investigated. If the credit union determines bullying or mobbing has occurred, appropriate relief for the employee bringing the complaint, and appropriate disciplinary action against the harasser(s), up to and including termination, will follow. The employee bringing the complaint may or may not be notified of the action taken against the bully. In the event a non-employee subjects an employee to bullying in the workplace, the employee should immediately contact their supervisor or Human Resources.

The Credit Union prohibits retaliation (punishment) against anyone who reports workplace bullying or participates in investigating such reports. Retaliation against an individual for reporting workplace bullying or for participating in an investigation of a claim is a serious violation of this policy and may be subject to disciplinary action.

1. Any employee, who believes that the actions or words of a Manager, Supervisor, Volunteer, member, or fellow employee constitute bullying, has a responsibility to report or the incident as soon as possible to the appropriate manager/supervisor (or the next higher level of management if the complaint involves the employee's manager/supervisor).
2. All workplace bullying complaints must be investigated promptly, impartially, and confidentially by the appropriate level of management. If an employee/volunteer is not satisfied with the handling of a complaint or actions taken the employee should write a letter to the President/CEO or appropriate level of management explaining why they do not agree. This will be reviewed by the President/CEO or appropriate level of management who may consult legal counsel if necessary. In all cases the employee is to be advised of the management's findings and conclusion.

3. Any employee, volunteer or manager/supervisor who is found after appropriate investigation to have engaged in workplace bullying of another employee will be subject to appropriate disciplinary action, depending on the circumstances, up to and including termination.

Code of Conduct

Bank Bribery

Under the Bank Bribery Law, Levo Credit Union's employees are prohibited from corruptly offering to or accepting from any person anything of value in connection with any business or transaction of the credit union. Therefore, it is the policy of the Credit Union to require all employees to adhere to the prohibitions and requirements of this policy regarding all business or transactions of the Credit Union.

A. Exceptions to General Prohibitions

Credit union employees may give or receive the following items, without disclosure to the President/CEO of the credit union:

I. bona fide salary, wages, fees, or other compensation paid, or expenses paid or reimbursed, to a credit union employee in the usual course of business;

II. gifts, gratuities, amenities, or favors based on obvious family or personal relationships (such as those between the parents, children, or spouse of a credit union employee) where the circumstances make it clear that it is those relationships rather than the business of the credit union concerned which are the motivating factor;

III. meals, refreshments or entertainment, all reasonable value and during a meeting or other occasion, the purpose of which is to hold bona fide credit union business discussions;

IV. loans from credit unions, banks, or financial institutions on customary terms to finance proper and usual activities of credit union employees, such as home mortgage loans, except where prohibited by law;

V. advertising or promotional material of reasonable value, such as pens, pencils, note pads, key chains, calendars, and similar items;

VI. discounts or rebates on merchandise or services that do not exceed those available to other members;

VII. gifts of reasonable value that are related to commonly recognized events or occasions, such as a promotion, new job, wedding, birth of a child, retirement, Christmas, or bar mitzvah; or

VIII. civic, charitable, educational, or religious organizational awards for recognition for service and accomplishment.

Credit union employees may accept items not listed above, with values not to exceed $150.00, anything over this amount must be disclosed to the President/CEO of the credit union.

B. Disclosure of Potential Conflicts of Interest

All credit union employees must disclose all potential conflicts of interest with any business transaction, service, or confidential information of Levo Credit Union (including those in which they have been inadvertently placed due to either business or personal relationships with members, suppliers, business associates, or competitors of the credit union).

C. No Retaliation

No credit union employees who, in good faith, report a concern will be subject to retaliation or adverse employment consequences. In addition, an employee who retaliates against someone who has reported a concern in good faith is subject to discipline up to and including termination of employment.

D. For Further Information about Bank Bribery Law

Any employee of Levo Credit Union desiring more information about the Federal Bank Bribery Law should contact the President/CEO of Levo Credit Union.

Hiring of Relatives

Personal Relationships in the Workplace

All employees are expected to exercise good judgment in their relationships with all fellow employees, Supervisory Committee members, and Board of Directors. If a personal relationship creates a concern, you need to let your supervisor or Human Resources know right away. The relationship may not involve you directly but may include a supervisor or fellow team member; therefore, it should be reported so that the Credit Union can take whatever action we determine is appropriate. Violating this policy is grounds for corrective action, which may include termination of employment.

Examples of Conflict of Interest

Both personal and family relationships can create a potential conflict of interest. Examples of conflict-of-interest situations include, but are not limited to:

- A romantic or close social relationship between a manager and someone he or she manages or supervises, either directly or indirectly; and
- A work or reporting relationship between a team member and someone related to him or her.

We consider the following people to be "related" to a team member:

- Family members (includes his or her spouse or domestic partner, if any, and their combined: parents and grandparents including step, children and grandchildren including step, and brothers and sisters including step);
- Other close relatives not specified in the basic definition of "family members;"
- Significant others or roommates; and
- Anyone else whose relationship to the team member could be perceived as causing a conflict of interest, such as those in a dating relationship.

We do not allow:

- One of these "related" people to supervise another, either directly or indirectly;
- Two "related" people to control a double custody arrangement; or
- One "related" person to process, review or audit the work of another, whether in the same or different department.

If a relative relationship or dating relationship is established after employment between employees, as described above, it is the responsibility and obligation of the supervisor or manager involved in the relationship to disclose the existence, in writing, of the relationship to VP Human Resources as soon as possible, but no later than ten (10) business days of the start of the relative or dating relationship. If a conflict of interest is present, the Credit Union will address the situation. In some cases, this may include the need to transfer employees to other positions or locations, if available.

Alcohol and Drugs

Levo Credit Union is a drug-free workplace. Employees should report to work fit for duty and free from any adverse effects of drugs or alcohol. This policy does not prohibit employees from the lawful use and possession of either over the counter (OTC) or prescribed medications. Employees must, however, consult with their doctors about the medication's effect on their fitness for duty and ability to work safely; and they must promptly disclose any work restrictions to their supervisor. To help ensure a safe, healthy, and productive work environment for our employees and others, while working, employees may NOT:

- possess or consume alcohol on company premises except for alcoholic beverages being offered as authorized by the President/CEO at holiday functions or special events.
- use, possess, buy, sell, manufacture, or dispense an illegal drug including possession of drug paraphernalia. Illegal drugs are defined as a substance whose use or possession is controlled by federal law but that is not being used or possessed under the supervision of a licensed healthcare professional. (Controlled substances are listed in Schedules I-V C.F.R. Part 1308 - see www.ecfr.gov).
- be under the influence of alcohol or drugs. This can mean actions, appearance, speech, or bodily odors that reasonably cause a supervisor to conclude that an employee is impaired because of alcohol or drug use. Furthermore, it can mean the misuse of legal drugs (prescription and possibly OTC as well as both recreational and medical marijuana) when there is not a valid prescription from a physician for the lawful use of a drug in the course of medical treatment (containers must be labeled by a licensed pharmacist and employees must be prepared to produce the container, if asked).

These activities constitute serious violations of Credit Union rules, jeopardize the Credit Union, and can create situations that are unsafe or that interfere with job performance. The Credit Union will not allow employees to perform their duties while taking OTC or prescribed drugs that are adversely affecting their ability to perform their job duties safely and effectively. Employees suspected of being under the influence of alcohol or drugs during work time may be required to take a drug or alcohol test. Examples of specific observations and behaviors that create a reasonable suspicion are:

- Odors (smell of alcohol, body odor or urine)
- Movements (unsteady, fidgety, dizzy)
- Eyes dilated, constricted or watery eyes, or involuntary eye movements)
- Face (flushed, sweating, confused or blank look)
- Speech (slurred, slow, distracted mid-thought, inability to verbalize thoughts)
- Emotions (argumentative, agitated, irritable, drowsy)
- Actions (yawning, twitching)
- Inactions (sleeping, unconscious, no reaction to questions)

If management believes an employee to be impaired, under no circumstances will the employee be allowed to drive home. The employee must arrange for a cab, Lyft, family, or friend, etc. to drive them home. Law enforcement personnel may be notified, as appropriate, when criminal activity is suspected.

Employees in violation of this policy or who refuse to take a drug/alcohol test as set forth in the credit union's policies will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

Smoking and Tobacco Use

Levo Credit Union is a smoke-free establishment and as such the use of cigarettes, e-cigarettes, and cigars inside our buildings is prohibited. Smoking is allowed outside of the building at non-member entrances, but smokers should be considerate of colleagues and help to maintain a clean entryway by depositing cigarettes in appropriate containers and staying far enough away from doors so that smoke does not blow into the building. Employees who smoke must observe the same guidelines as non-smokers for the frequency and length of break periods.

Use of other tobacco products (i.e., chewing tobacco) is allowed if it is not noticeable to others and remains in the mouth (i.e., no spitting, no use of spit containers, etc.).

Any violation of smoking or tobacco use in the workplace should be addressed with the employee or reported to their immediate supervisor.

Fraud

Levo Credit Union considers any form of fraud or dishonesty on the part of its employees as unacceptable conduct. Acts which are considered to be either fraudulent or dishonest include, "BUT ARE NOT LIMITED TO":

1. Manipulation of loan accounts, documents, computer records, shares or share draft accounts that give a false representation as to such accounts or documents.
2. Theft of any kind, including stealing from member's accounts, overpayment of dividends and creating fictitious loans.
3. Check/Share Draft kiting.
4. Forgeries.
5. Unauthorized or unapproved salary advances or overtime reimbursement.
6. Intentional violation of Credit Union policies, internal controls, rules, and regulations as defined by your employee handbook, or procedures.
7. Intentionally failing to secure collateral, to properly record a security interest in collateral or pledging a member's shares as collateral without that member's permission.

8. Granting unauthorized or preferential treatment to members, employees, or anyone else.
9. Acceptance of preferential treatment or excessive gifts from vendors (see Code of Conduct Policy for explanations).

Reporting Fraud

If you feel there is something fraudulent or illegal taking place, feel free to come to a supervisor. If that is not possible or you do not feel comfortable with that, you may anonymously contact the Levo Credit Union Supervisory Committee at P.O. Box 5735, Sioux Falls, SD 57117-5735, or call the NCUA Fraud telephone number listed below.

Credit union employees who may suspect or have knowledge of illegal conduct or fraud should report their suspicions to the National Credit Union Administration (NCUA) on a toll-free telephone line maintained by the Office of General Counsel. A staff attorney will answer calls, and callers may remain anonymous if they wish. All charges will be investigated, and cash rewards will be paid for information resulting in civil or criminal penalties.

No credit union employees who, in good faith, report a concern shall be subject to retaliation or adverse employment consequences. In addition, an employee who retaliates against someone who has reported a concern in good faith is subject to discipline up to and including dismissal from the volunteer position or termination of employment.

The toll-free NCUA Fraud Line number is: 1-800-827-9650

Violence-Free Workplace

Levo Credit Union is committed to providing a safe and secure work environment for its employees and members. Therefore, Levo Credit Union will not allow its employees to be threatened, harassed, or victimized by acts of violence in the workplace and will ask for the help of all employees to report any potential or perceived violent acts.

A. Workplace Violence

Workplace violence includes any action, or threat of action, which occurs in or around the workplace in which an employee, contractor, volunteer, or member of the public seeks to harm or threaten another person, their family, and/or their personal property or Credit Union property. This includes verbal, as well as physical, threats.

To ensure a violence-free workplace, Levo Credit Union will, under no circumstances, tolerate physical violence or threatening behavior in the workplace, on Credit Union property, or at business-related functions. Conduct that the Credit Union considers threatening and, therefore, prohibited includes, but is not limited to, the following:

- Profane or abusive language.
- Threats or insinuations of “getting even.”
- Physical aggression.
- Dangerous pranks or practical jokes.
- Aggressive horseplay.
- Fighting.
- Assault.
- Any form of harassment.

B. Firearms and Weapons

Possessing firearms and/or other weapons on Credit Union premises, or at Credit Union-sponsored events, is prohibited. A weapon is defined as any item that may be utilized for the purpose of inflicting bodily injury, which may include items that are legal to own.

C. Personal Situations

Employees may experience personal situations that could pose a threat to the workplace, including, but not limited to:

- Incidents of domestic violence or threats against an employee where there is a possibility that the other party will seek out the employee at work.
- An employee obtaining a restraining order naming his/her workplace as a restricted area.
- An employee receiving threatening or harassing telephone calls at work.
- An employee being the target of unwanted pursuit by someone who has been seen at or near the workplace.

Should any of these situations arise, employees must notify their supervisor immediately. Employees will not be subject to adverse actions or retaliation for reporting such activity.

All employees who apply for or obtain a protective or restraining order that lists Levo Credit Union as a protected area must provide Human Resources a copy of the temporary protective or restraining order granted, and a copy of any protective or restraining order that is made permanent must also be provided. Additional information and documents may be required in the event that the person the employee is seeking to restrain is a fellow employee, member or vendor.

D. Where to Call

To ensure the safety of our employees and members, it is necessary that employees immediately report any violent or threatening behavior, as well as any situation that is causing fear or anxiety to their supervisor, manager, or Human Resources.

Employees experiencing domestic problems and needing outside assistance are encouraged to seek confidential assistance from Levo's Employee Assistance Program (EAP), call 988 for the Helpline Center,or contact the National Domestic Violence Hotline at 1-800-799-SAFE (not a Levo Credit Union sponsored service.)

Levo Credit Union is serious about its commitment to provide a violence-free workplace. Therefore, violent acts are grounds for termination of employment.

Flexible Work Policy

Levo established a flexible work program that allows employees to make requests to work alternative schedules, work at home, work on the road or in a satellite location for part of their workweek. Telecommuting/remote work is considered a viable flexible work option when both the employee and the job are suited to such an arrangement. Telecommuting may be appropriate for some employees and jobs but not for others. Telecommuting is not an entitlement, it is not a companywide benefit, and it in no way changes the terms and conditions of employment with Levo FCU.

Employees requesting formal remote work arrangements must generally be employed with Levo for a minimum of 12 months of continuous regular employment and must have a satisfactory performance record with no disciplinary action within the preceding year. Before entering into any remote work agreement, the employee and manager, with the assistance of the IT (Information Technology) and HR departments, will evaluate the suitability of such an arrangement. Levo's Executive VP Strategy and Service or CEO will have final approval on any flexible work arrangements.

Remote work arrangements may be reviewed and/or terminated at any time by Levo, as determined to be in the best interests of the business and/or the employee. Levo's Flexible Work Program and working remotely is a benefit. Failure to comply with any aspect of this policy or related Personnel policies such as Confidentiality and Information Security policies may constitute grounds for disciplinary action, up to and including termination. Please see Levo's Flexible Work Program for more information.

Conclusion

Changing circumstances will require that policies, practices, and benefits described in this handbook change from time to time. Consequently, the credit union reserves the right to amend, supplement, or rescind any provisions in this handbook, as it deems appropriate.

The most current version of the handbook is always available on our employee intranet site, or you may contact Human Resources for a copy.

Feel free to bring suggestions for improvement to your supervisor or human resources at any time. By working together, we hope to share sincere pride in the workplace and the services we are here to provide for our members.

Employees are asked to acknowledge receipt and understanding of the Employee Handbook in our online payroll system.

Employee Usage of Information Technology

Disclaimer

The Internet is a worldwide network of computers that contains millions of pages of information. Users are cautioned that many of these pages include offensive, sexually explicit, and similar inappropriate material. On occasion, it is difficult to avoid at least some contact with this material while using the Internet. Also, having an e-mail address on the Internet may lead to unsolicited e-mail containing offensive content. Users accessing the Internet do so at their own risk and Levo Credit Union is not responsible for material viewed or downloaded by users from the Internet. To minimize these risks, your use of the Internet and email at Levo Credit Union is governed by the following policy:

Permitted Use of Internet and Credit Union Computer Network

The computer network, email, and Internet is the property of Levo Credit Union and can only be used for legitimate business purposes. The username and password are the responsibility of the individual to whom it is assigned. Any authorized use or sharing of password or username by other individuals to access Levo Credit Union network and internet makes that employee-user responsible for all actions of those individuals. The user is also responsible for locking their workstations when they leave their area. Users are given access to the computer network to help them perform their jobs. All Users have a responsibility to use the credit union's computer resources and the Internet in a professional, lawful, and ethical manner. Abuse of the computer network or the Internet may result in disciplinary action, including termination, and civil and/or criminal liability.

Levo Credit Union Guidelines for E-Mail

All e-mails must be saved on PCs and are periodically backed up through the IS backup routine. Also, federal regulations that govern e-mail are considered the same as an application (loan) and regulations apply and have set response times. Management and Information Systems along with the Information Systems Personnel control passwords for e-mail. As the email network is Credit Union property, the Credit Union reserves the right to monitor usage, and employees should not expect privacy in credit union email use.

Computer Network Use Limitations

A. Prohibited Uses

With the exception for the one-time solicitation for charitable events and causes described in the “Employee Handbook and Personnel Policy”, the credit union computer network may not be used to disseminate, view or store commercial or personal advertisements, solicitations, promotions, destructive code (e.g. viruses, self-replicating programs, etc.), pornographic text or images, or any other non-business materials.

Employees may not use the Credit Union’s Internet connection to download games or other entertainment software (including screen savers), or to play games over the Internet.

Downloading of any executable files or programs which change the configuration of your system by anyone other than the Information Systems personnel is prohibited. Employees of Levo Credit Union may not use the Internet or e-mail to send or receive non-work-related messages or to perform personal business of any kind over the Internet; except for Credit Union sponsored financial access and benefits (such as managing your Credit Union accounts). Confidential information should not be transmitted over the internet or email. Additionally, you may not use the computer network to display, store or send (by e-mail or any other form of electronic communication such as bulletin boards, chat rooms, blogs, usenet groups, etc.) material that is fraudulent, harassing, embarrassing, sexually explicit, profane, obscene, intimidating, defamatory or otherwise inappropriate or unlawful. Anyone receiving such materials should notify his/her supervisor immediately.

B. Remote Internet Work Related Sites

An employee may not access any work-related site containing staff or member confidential information (such as name plus address, social security number, etc.) from any public or home internet. These sites need to be accessed via Levo Credit Union VPN to the Credit Union unless it is an Android or Apple App recommended for use by Levo Credit Union. Exceptions for website access are made for:

- Accessing your OWN records via Self Service portal since the access is to your own information only. Anyone accessing as a manager needs to access via the App for Self Service portal since they have access to other employees' information.
- Accessing Performance Pro as a Supervisor since the site only contains staff names and no other identifying confidential information.

C. Personal electronic devices

Personal electronic devices are any computer equipment that contains a storage device or form of persistent memory, including but not limited to media players, USB hard drives, USB flash drives, cellular phones, tablets, digital cameras, networking hardware, personal data assistants (PDAs), desktop computers and laptop computers. Employees may not attach or insert any of these devices without prior consent of the I.T. Department.

D. Illegal Copying

Users may not illegally copy material protected under copyright law or make that material available to others for copying. You are responsible for complying with copyright law and applicable licenses that may apply to software, files, graphics, documents, messages, and other material you wish to download or copy. You may not agree to a license or download any material for which the registration fee is charged without first obtaining authorization from the I.T. Department.

E. Duty not to Waste or Damage Computer Resources

Accessing the Internet: To ensure security and avoid the spread of viruses, Users accessing the Internet through a computer attached to the credit union's network must do so through an approved Internet firewall or other security device. Bypassing the credit union's computer network security by accessing the Internet directly by modem, any other personal electronic device, or other means is strictly prohibited.

F. Frivolous Use

Computer resources are limited. Network bandwidth and storage capacity have finite limits, and all Users connected to the Network have a responsibility to conserve these resources. As such, the User must not deliberately perform acts that waste computer resources or unfairly monopolize resources to the exclusion of others. These acts include, but are not limited to, sending mass mailings or chain letters, spending excessive amounts of time on the internet, playing games, shopping, engaging in online chat groups, uploading, or downloading large files, accessing streaming audio and/or video files, or otherwise creating unnecessary loads on network traffic associated with non-business- related uses of the Internet.

G. Virus detection

Files obtained from sources outside the credit union, including disks brought from home, files downloaded from the Internet, newsgroups, bulletin boards, or other online services; files attached to e-mails, and files provided by members or vendors, may contain dangerous computer viruses that may damage the credit union's computer network. Users should never download files from the Internet or insert any other outside device without prior permission from their I.T. Department.

If you suspect that a virus has been introduced into the credit union's network, notify the I.T. Department immediately.

No Expectation of Privacy

Employees are given computers, email, and Internet access to assist them in their jobs. Employees should have no expectation of privacy in anything they create, store, send or receive using the credit union's computer equipment. The computer network is the property of the Credit Union and may be used only for Credit Union and work-related purposes.

Waiver of privacy rights. User expressly waives any right of privacy in anything they create, store, send or receive using the Credit Union's computer equipment or Internet access. The user consents to allow credit union personnel access to and review of all materials created, stored, sent, or received by the User through the Credit Union network or Internet connection.

Monitoring of computer and Internet usage. The Credit Union has the right to monitor and log all aspects of its computer system including, but not limited to, monitoring Internet sites visited by Users, monitoring chat and newsgroups, monitoring file downloads, and all communications sent and received by users.

Blocking sites with inappropriate content. The Credit Union has the right to utilize software that makes it possible to identify and block access to Internet sites containing sexually explicit or other material it deems in violation of Credit Union policies and inappropriate in the workplace.

Appendix B: Acceptable Use Standards

The following acceptable use standards provide guidance on the allowable use of the Credit Union's computer equipment, systems, and information assets. These requirements have been established to protect the employees of the Credit Union, as well as the Credit Union's members, and apply to all users of the Credit Union's systems. Inappropriate use of the computer equipment and systems may expose the Credit Union to risks such as viruses, unauthorized access to member information, reputation, and legal/compliance.

- "Clean Desk" Policy.
    - Employees are required to protect and secure confidential member information.

  - Confidential information will be put in locked drawers, filing cabinets or the vault at night.
  - Keep your computer turned away from public viewing unless you are assisting a member and viewing the information with them.
- Confidentiality and Non-Disclosure.
  - Unauthorized disclosure or misuse of Credit Union or member information is not allowed.
  - Information, whether it is confidential, internal use, or public, shall not be used for non-business or personal use.
- Computer Use.
  - Personal use of the Credit Union's computer systems is very limited and must not interfere with productivity.
  - Using the Credit Union's computer systems for personal profit, business, blogs, etc. is not allowed.
  - Attempting to access systems that access has not been granted to is not allowed.
  - Playing games is not allowed.
  - Installing personal software is not allowed.
  - All external media (i.e., compact discs, flash drives, floppy diskettes, etc.) must be brought to the IT Department and scanned for viruses prior to first use.
  - An employee may not access any work-related site containing staff or member confidential information (such as name plus address, social security number, etc.) from any public or home internet. These sites need to be accessed via Levo Credit Union established VPN to the Credit Union unless it is an Android or Apple App recommended for use by Levo Credit Union. Exceptions for website access are made for:
    - Accessing your OWN records via the Self-Service Portal since the access is to your own information only. Anyone accessing as a manager needs to access via the Paylocity App since they have access to other employees' information.
    - Accessing Performance Pro as a Supervisor since the site only contains staff names and no other identifying confidential information.
- Passwords must be kept secure and not shared.
- Computers must be locked when leaving the workstation (i.e., password protected screen savers).

- Using the Credit Union's computer systems to violate copyright laws is not allowed.
- Using the Credit Union's computer systems to engage in fraudulent or illegal activities is not allowed.
- Using the Credit Union's computer system to send or receive (by any electronic means) any information that is harassing, embarrassing, sexually explicit, profane, obscene, intimidating, defamatory or otherwise inappropriate is not allowed.

E-mail and Internal Chat Use

- Personal use of the Credit Union's e-mail is extremely limited and must not interfere with productivity.
- Using the Credit Union's email systems for personal profit (business) is not allowed.
- E-mails must not include inappropriate items that may be offensive or derogatory to the Credit Union and its members and employees (i.e., jokes, solicitations, etc.).

Social Media

Employees retain the right to manage personal social media. While personal content on social media sites is unrelated to Levo Credit Union, employees must maintain a professional image as they represent the Credit Union at all times. Any employee that chooses to use social media in a personal manner shall comply with the Social Media Policy which is part of the Personnel Policies:

- Do not engage in inflammatory or inappropriate discussions or comments.
- Be responsible for all content posted online.
- Be aware of all laws pertaining to any illegal activity solicited online.
- Avoid engaging in online disputes.
- Be mindful of the indefinite life of posting items online.

- Review the privacy settings of all online social media sites.

You are specifically prohibited from:

- Posting any content that can be interpreted as negative toward or damaging the reputation of the Credit Union, its employees, its members, or affiliates.
- Posting any content owned by the Credit Union, such as confidential or accountholder information, work schedules, etc.
- Posting any content that is offensive, racist, obscene, or illegal.
- Posting social media content that includes the Credit Union. We appreciate all employee enthusiasm regarding posting on social media referencing the Credit Union. However, to protect the brand and image, we ask that you refrain from making any personal posts referencing Levo Credit Union within your posts. Instead, we would like to encourage sharing, posting, and commenting on posts from Levo Credit Union page itself.

The Credit Union provides an exception to the above acceptable use by providing PCs in the break room area for use by the Credit Union employees while in their own time. The above restrictions of proper computer, email and internet use apply.
